Allied Tanks Lead Cautious Advance In West, Center

Censor Guards Full Location Of Movement

By Don Huth

TOKYO, Sunday, May 6—(AP)—Powerful allied tank-infantry columns sparred for an opening in Communist defense screens along the Korean front Saturday.

Behind the patrols, United Nations ground forces pushed cautiously forward, taking up slack in the lines separating the opposing armies.

Frontline dispatches were subjected to unusually close censorship. It appeared designed to cover the exact location of UN troop movements.

"This is not a general advance, but we're sparring for an opening," an American Eighth Army spokesman cautioned AP correspondent Robert Eunson.

The allied forward movement came both on the western front north of Seoul and on the central front south of Chunchon.

On the western front some Chinese prisoners taken Saturday wore new summer uniforms and freshly-issued rubber-soled shoes, reported AP correspondent George A. McArthur.

Return to Uijongbu

Allied infantry patrols re-entered Uijongbu, 11 miles north of the old Korean capital. Artillery opened up on other small pockets Chinese west, north and east of Uijongbu.

AP correspondent John Randolph said allied commanders believed these Reds were the southern screening force of large Chinese concentrations south of the 38th parallel on the western front.

Field reports told of 21,000 Reds and 500 horses concentrated north of Chuncon.

Minefields Numerous

Thich minefields sown north of Seoul also provided a clue to Communist intentions.

One informed American officer said it was characteristic of the Chinese to lay "acres of minefields" to screen an area where they are massing for an attack.

Correspondent Eunson said it was generally believed the next move by the Reds—who still have more than 500,000 men along the front — will apply pressure on Seoul from the north while a spearhead tries to cross the Han river about eight miles east of the ancient capital. The aim would be to pin the allies on the Inchon peninsula to the west, and split the defense lie running to central Korea.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet had no intention of leting his Eighth Army fall into this plight. He has started his outnumbered but better-armed forces rolling northward again to keep the Reds off balance.

Acheson Voted To Fire General

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—A State department spokesman said today Secretary Acheson was among the advisors who made the "unanimous recommendations" upon which President Truman based his dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The question of Acheson's position arose most recently out of an inquiry put to General MacArthur at the Senate hearings yesterday by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark). Fulbright asked MacArthur whether he would be surprised to learn that Acheson "in fact opposed your recall vigorously in discussions at the highest level."

Pilot Unhurt In PT Crash; Plane Ruined

Lack Of Fuel Causes Emergency Landing By Glenn Pace, Jr.

Glenn Pace, Jr., 702 North Stewart, who was taking a Saturday afternoon flight about the country in a P.T. 19 Fairchild two-place plane, walked away from the plane without a scratch after it crashed into the pasture of L. I. Patrick, near Twenty-eighth and Marshall, about 3:15 p. m. that afternoon. The plane was practicaly demolished.

Pace had taken the plane to practice take-offs and landings, when he decided to make a flight over the south part of Sedalia. About Twenty-fourth and Grand avenue, while more than 1,600 feet in the air the engine "knocked-out." He tried switching the gasoline tank lines; nothing happened so he started looking for a likely safe landing place. He picked the field of Patrick's and started gliding into the northwest over a hedge fence. As he approached the fence the plane was a little too low and the right wing clipped a strong hedge limb. The tail came down and caught the wire fence and the plane went into a grassy spot. But a ditch loomed up and the plane nosed into it.

The young pilot loosened his safety belt, climbed out, surveyed the scene, then called the Sedalia airport notifying Jack Funk the owner of the plane.

Mr. Funk explained that he had told Pace he had enough gas for about fifteen minutes and for a couple of take-offs and landings. The cause of the engine going dead was nothing more than the lack of fuel.

Policies Near Showdown On The Far East

It Might Come On Battlefield If Held To Korea

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—The Truman policies in the Far East are faced with a two-fold test: in the Senate hearing room in Washington, and on the battlefields of Korea.

And a showdown could come sooner on the battlefields than in Congress.

The administration argument has been that if the war is limited to Korea and the Chinese Reds severely punished there, an acceptable peace may be reached. The next week or two may tell whether that theory is correct.

At issue is the question whether President Truman can obtain popular support to make his policies stick or whether he will have to adopt some of General Douglas MacArthur's proposals.

What is happening in Korea now is being followed in the top levels of the administration here with the keenest interest. It was summed up by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, MacArthur's successor, after a visit to the front. He said that so far the only thing the tremendous Communist offensive had accomplished was the destruction of "tens of thousands more of their own men." Red casualties since April 22 are now estimated at more than 80,000.

That heavy damage to the enemy was what the President and his advisors had expected. They have hoped, too, that when the Chinese Communist have been hurt badly enough they will sit down at a conference table and make a settlement acceptable to the U. N.

Conjecture On Issue

Should that in fact occur within the next few weeks administration officials will seize upon it as proof of the rightness of their strategy of keeping the war limited to the Korean peninsula. But if it does not occur, General MacArthur and his advocates may say that the administration's hopes are without basis.

Thus it seems logical that a quick conclusion to the fighting would work to the President's benefit and overshadow the great debate here, while an indefinite continuance of warfare would make it harder for the President to reject all of MacArthur's proposals.

That the administration has been preparing the ground for a cease fire and negotiated settlement, probably along the line of the 38th parallel is suggested by official comment on the Korean conflict. There is no longer on the administration's side any talk of a triumph in Korea. The key phrase was used by President in his speech on MacArthur's dismissal April 11 when he spoke of trying to bring the war "to a speedy and successful conclusion." Secretary Acheson used the phrase "successful conclusion" in his most recent public speech.

General MacArthur, by contrast, has spoken of "victory" as the only proper militray objective in the Korean fighting. He has severely criticized the administration for not following what he considers a decisive line of action aimed at bringing the fighting to a victorious end. He indicated that he visualizes this end as one in which Chinese Red representatives might sit down at a conference table and subscribe to arrangements preventing any further aggression by them.

Marshall Likely To Give Views

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—Senator Russell (D-Ga) was asked at a news conference tonight whether President Truman would be requested to testify at the MacArthur hearings.

Russell, who is presiding at the hearings, replied that it would be highly unusual to ask a President to testify and that he assumed Secretary of Defense Marshall would present Mr. Truman's views.

Recalling that George Washington once had testified before a congressional committee, Russell added:

"Even though he was the father of our country, he said 'blank it, I don't like it up here, and I'm not coming back."

Lack Funds On Medical School

M. U. Curators Anxious For One Of Four Years

ST. LOUIS, May 5—(AP)—A request for $13,500,000 to establish a four-year medical school at the University of Missouri, rejected by the State Senate appropriations committee, was described today by the President of the University's board of curators as a rock-bottom figure.

John H. Wolpers of Poplar Bluff, the board president, said the curators were surprised to learn the Senate committee voted 10 to 3 against the requested appropriation Wednesday.

"The curators believe Missouri should have this school," Wolpers said, "and we are confident that the costs will never be lower than those we have established.

"It is, of course, a matter for the people, speaking through the general assembly, to decide whether we will have a four year school or continue to operate the two-year school we now have."

Lacking Of Funds

Senator John W. Noble (D) of Kennett, chairman of the Senate committee, said the committee's decision did not mean its members were against a four-year school, that the state just didn't have the money. He added the committee would welcome any plan from the curators that could be financed without an increase in taxes.

Wolpers said the appropriation request was based on studies made by the curators over a ten-year period and with the advice of technical experts. "Consequently, we were surprised to learn that, after a short hearing, the committee denied our request in a brief session," he said.

"The curators were prepared to present at the hearing materials bearing on the request and expected to be called upon at this or a later hearing for a detailed breakdown of estimates and other data collected from Missouri and other states," Wolpers continued.

"The curators realize that the sum requested is a large one. They have made strenous efforts for many months to reduce the amount requested to the lowest possible estimate.

"The truth is, as the curators have established by long study and the aid of the best technical assistance available, that an adequate medical center cannot be constructed, set up, or organized in any location for a lesser amount."

Charge Buildup On Patronage

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—The Republicans accused the Democrats today of putting price control "under the guidance of political hacks and lame ducks."

A statement by chairman Guy Gabrielson of the Republican National committee said the Truman administration is using the Office of Price Stabilization (OPA) to build up a big patronage machine for the 1952 elections. A lot of "deserving Democrats" have been given political plums, he said.

Gabrielson said a GOP survey showed that in the great majority of instances, appointments to top price control positions have been those of "Democrats recommended by senators, representatives, state and national Democrat leaders—and in one instance, by President Truman himself."

An accompanying list showed that H. Roe Bartle is the OPS acting regional director at Kansas City at a salary of $38.48 per day. It described him as a Democrat "reported to be President Truman's personal appointee."

KC Woman Dies As Parked Car Rolls-Off Cliff

KANSAS CITY, May 5—(AP)—A parked car rolled off a 40-foot bank into Prairie Lee lake tonight, carrying a 53-year-old woman to death.

The victim, Mrs. Catherine Davis of Kansas City, was seated in the car at a picnic ground when the car began to move. Witnesses said she tried to jump out, but failed before the machine plunged into water estimated at 25 to 35 feet deep.

Arthur W. Ganzer, 43, Kansas City, told highway patrolmen he and Mrs. Davis had driven to the in rural Jackson county to meet some friends for a picnic. Ganzer got out of the car to talk to the friends, and the car rolled away.

William H. Cady, fishing nearby, dived several times to try rescuing Mrs. Davis, but had to give up because of the cold water.

Is National Music Week

National Music Week is May 6th to 13th and the keynote for 1951 is "Enrich Your Living Through Music."

Churches, school groups, civic groups and many others will participate in the observance of the week with special musical programs.

A wider aquaintance with good music by American composers has been an underlying purpose of Music Week from its inception on a national basis in 1924.

Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, Music Week chairman for the Helen G. Music club says that organizations of all kinds are cooperating in the presentation of musical programs this week that all Sedalians may have the privilege of hearing outstanding musicians and singers of this community. She also is urging that Sedalians make it a point to have gatherings of their friends or families for music in the home.

Music Week ends with Mother's Day which has inspired some of the most beautiful music of all.

Final Warning Voiced By MacArthur As He Ends Testimony

Gen. M'Arthur Leaves Choice Of Eastern Policy To People

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur has laid before the American people the clear-cut choice of following the Truman administration—or following General MacArthur.

In essence, this is the great issue that has emerged—sharp and clear in outline—from the general's three days of testimony before senators who are looking into the reasons for his ouster by President Truman.

Both MacArthur and the administration are planning to carry the fight to the nation for a final decision.

President Truman has asked the people not to make up their minds until all the facts are known. And MacArthur has disclosed through an aide that he is planning to carry on the fight through a series of speeches probably starting with an address to a joint session of the Texas legislature.

The choices are:

(1) Accept the MacArthur plan to beat Red China into surrender by bombing, a naval blockade, the use of Chinese Nationalist troops, and the use of a few more American ground troops in Korea.

The risk of Russia coming into the war must be taken, MacArthur says.

He warned that Communism already has begun an armed attack on the free world and "if you don't meet it in Korea you are doomed to destruction." He argued a victory in Korea is the best way to forestall a surprise atomic attack on this country—and that Communism must be opposed all over the world wherever it is.

(2) Accept the administration plan to limit the war to Korea, on the theory that allied forces eventually will make the war so costly the Chinese will be forced to sue for peace. The administration does not want to take the risk of drawing Russia into the conflict.

There it is. All the other arguments pale into fuzzy outline when placed against this basic disagreement on the best way to win a war.

Two US Battalions Stopped Original Ko-Red Onslaught

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur related today that the North Koreans could have overrun the whole country in the first 10 days of the war but were fooled by the "arrogant display" of two desperately fighting American battalions.

He told Senators that when he was ordered to intervene and flew to Korea he found the South Korean army "had been hit so hard that it was completely disintegrated." Moreover, the South Koreans had put all their supplies between Seoul and the 3th parallel and had lost them immediately.

Han Line Untenable

"I felt that the line of the Han (river) could not be maintained," MacArthur said. "I felt that it was entirely problematical whether we could save any remnants of the South Korean army or establish any position in Korea."

But MacArthur continued, he threw in troops from the Twenty-Fourth division by air in the hope of establishing resistance "around which I could rally the fast retreating South Korean forces."

"I also hoped by that arrogant display of strength to fool the enemy into a belief that I had a much greater resource at my disposal than I did.

Resistance A Vital Success

"I managed to throw in a part of two batallion of infantry, who put up a magnificent resistance before they were destroyed—a resistance which resulted, perhaps, in one of the most vital successes that we had.

"The enemy undoubtedly could not understand that we would make such an effort with such a small force.

Pictures The Free World "Doomed To Destruction" If Reds Not Crushed

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived by plane in New York at 7:28 (EST) today after his third day of testimony before a Senate committee.

"I'm glad the hearings are over," he said.

As he left his plane, MacArthur was asked for comment on the day's hearing and said:

"It's the same as before—interesting."

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's aide, said to reporters, "we don't return tomorrow."

MacArthur took off from Washington in his plane, the Bataan, at 6:33 p. m. (EST) and, as he was boarding the plane, was asked, "are you coming back?"

"I don't think so," he said. "I'm through now."

"Now I'm home for good," MacArthur said as he arrived at the hotel Waldorf Astoria.

To reporters, MacArthur said:

"I'm through with the hearing. I feel fine now that it's over."

Whitney said the MacArthur family have "no further plans for tomorrow or next week, and nothing further tonight; no plans we could announce right now."

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP) — Douglas MacArthur, an old soldier with a burning cause, rested his case before Senate investigators tonight. He uttered this final warning: The free world is "doomed to destruction" if it fails to crush completely the Communist threat in Korea.

The five-star general wound up three days of virtually constant tetimony at 6 p. m. (EST) with a new blast at President Truman, denying he ever violated a Presidential order and declaring he never got a firm, workable plan from Washington to carry on the Korean war.

"I felt in all conscience," MacArthur said, "I could not go on ordering men to their deaths by the thousands in such a complete vacuum of policy decision."

Then, like the old soldier in the barrack room ballad, MacArthur faded away—for the time being—toward New York, leaving behind as violent a controversy as has rocked the nation's capital in many years.

Some of the Senators who heard him were brushed after the long, back-aching hours of questions and answers—estimated at 174-,000 words. MacArthur, 71, drove home his arguments with vigor and fluency to the very end. He appeared untired as he boarded his plane, the Bataan, at National Airport.

May Return for Rebuttal

He may be back for rebuttal after the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees have heard other witnesses on his ouster, beginning with Secretary of Defense Marshall on Monday. MacArthur left Marshall and the Joint Chiefs of Staff a host of questions to answer.

Today, time and again, the deposed Far Eastern commander called for harder blows against the Chinese Communists.

He coupled this with a solemn plea that the U. S. uses its "moral leadership' 'to seek a major power agreement abolishing war.

And he got into the record, after military censorship held it up more than 24 hours, a message showing the Pentagon withheld permission for him to use 30,000 or more Chinese Nationalist troops to help stem the Red Chinese onslaught of last November.

One reason given by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for holding up action on his request: That British commonwealth nations might not let their troops fight along Chiang Kai-Shek's men.

Voices Indignation

In the final hours of his voluminous testimony, MacArthur declared he resents "with every fiber of my body" the suggestion that he failed to carry out the policies of the President, of the nation "or even the policies and directives of the United Nations."

With indignation ringing from every word, MacArthur said the various recommendations he made for harder blows against the Chinese Reds were aimed at "seeking decisions, seeking policy directives."

It was after a number of public statements at variance with administration policy that President Truman fired the general last month, with the explanation that he thought MacArthur could not give wholehearted support to the policies of the U. S. and the United Nations.

"MacArthur declared flatly to-

Flood's Crest Sweeps-Down On Mo. Towns

By the Associated Press

The crest of the flooding Mississippi river moved toward cities in Missouri Saturday and National Guardsmen and volunteers watched levees for weak spots.

A soft spot appeared in a levee protecting the north section of Canton, Mo., but volunteers and National Guardsmen reinforced it.

The river reached 18.8 feet at Canton and is expected to rise nine tenths of a foot by Tuesday.

The river receded slightly at Muscatine, Iowa, where it is 4½ feet above flood stage. All levees were holding.

Meanwhile, cold air from the Hudson Bay region spread over much of the eastern half of the country. Concord, N. H., was one of the nation's coldest spots with an early morning temperature of 26 degrees.

Fair weather with near normal temperatures prevailed in most of the west.

Dean Mott Presents Awards

To Alberto Gainza Paz, now a refugee, we send our congratulations and our faith that La Prensa will at length be reborn, Dean F. L. Mott told the assembly at the presentation of the Missouri honor awards for distinguished services in journalism at a Journalism Week session at Columbia Friday afternoon.

Gainza Paz was editor of La Prensa in Buenos Aires before it was taken over by the Peron government.

Dean Mott, expanding on Thomas Jefferson's principles that liberty of the press protests our other liberties, said true democracy cannot exist with a press controlled by government.

Friendly United Nations countries are today advocating government control, Mott said. This movement would put out the light of the free press everywhere, he added, if successful.

"We ourselves will do all in our power in the cause of a press free from all invidious controls—of party, of faction, of selfish interests, of government, of dictatorship," Dean Mott said.

Presented with awards for distinguished service were: The Minneapolis Star and Tribune; Marquis Childs, author of "Washington Calling" column; Lee Hills, managing editor of the Miami Herald; George H. Scruton, Sedalia Democrat; and Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

John Cowles, publisher of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, was the afternoon's main speaker.

Senator Margaret Smith Outsmarts Senator Taft

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

This week Congressman Walter E. Brehm of Ohio was found guilty of taking salary kickbacks from his stenographer. This culminated an expose by Drew Pearson, which began September 26, 1950, when Pearson for the first time revealed the congressman's kickbacks. Brehm immediately called Pearson a liar and threatened to sue. Pearson's reply was to print more facts about Brehm's kickbacks—facts that were substantiated by a jury this week.

This follows another spectacular Pearson expose which led to a jail sentence for ex-Congressman Parnell Thomas of New Jersey.

Incidentally, the only two cases in the entire history of the Unted States of congressmen going to jail for salary kickbacks, have resulted from the bird-dog reporting of Drew Pearson. In each case, he was called a liar. But proved his case.

WASHINGTON — They say that woman members of Congress aren't smart, that they don't measure up in rough-and-tumble debate, don't know the tricks of backstage wire-pulling.

However, it took a lady to outsmart the most powerful Republican in the Senate—Bob Taft of Ohio.

Last fall, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Republican of Maine, was bumped off the Senate Investigating committee. The man who initiated her exit was Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin who wanted revenge for Mrs. Smith's "declaration of conscience" in which she urged a fair hearing for those recklessly and falsely smeared by McCarthy.

However, Mrs. Smith would not have been dropped from the investigating committee had it not been for Senator Taft's covert support for McCarthy. It was Taft, rather than McCarthy, who really gave the ax to the lady senator from Maine.

Mrs. Smith had little to say at the time. She smiled sweetly, bided her time, and worked at another committee job investigating the Maryland elections.

Several times Senator Taft tried to pour cold water on this Maryland probe, claiming that the election scandals in Maryland were peanuts compared to what happened in Ohio. The elections committee should take a good look at Ohio, he said, if it wanted to unearth real skulduggery.

So Mrs. Smith quietly took Senator Taft at his word. "Senator Taft is quite right," she sweetly told her Democratic colleagues on the election subcommittee, "we should investigate the Ohio election."

May Embarrass Taft

Such a probe has now been voted, but Taft is simply fit to be tied. Angrily, he told Republican leaders that the investigation had not been cleared with him.

Reason for Taft's ire is that any careful investigation of his recent re-election in Ohio will probably embarrass him more than the Democrats. It will show, for instance, that he spent far more money that the Democrats, and will show a vicious anti-Catholic whispering campaign waged by some of Taft's followers. Though Taft personally had nothing to do with the campaign, it was just as anti-American as the unfair fake literature used by the Republicans in Maryland to defeat Tydings. And bringing anti-Catholicism out in the open is not going to help Taft's presidential chances.

Thanks however to the kick which Taft gave a lady, the senator from Ohio is now going to be investigated by Mrs. Smith's new committee.

Note — Another Senate probe which started with a flourish is now gathering dust thanks to Sen. Guy Gillette of Iowa. Gillette's investigators unearthed some strange evidence regarding Lt. Gov. Joe Hanley of New York, indicating that he had no debts in Iowa, though he worked a deal with Governor Dewey last year for the avowed purpose of paying off his debts. For some strange reason Gillette has now blown cold on the New York election probe.

Temptation to Soviet

Most dangerous fact about the present international situation is that four important countries now face elections. This is probably a greater temptation to the Soviet to strike than all other political considerations combined.

The countries facing major elections are: England, certain to stage an election in the fall; France, due for general elections this summer; Italy, which has important municipal elections this year; and of course the U. S. A., which is already warming up for the great four-year political tug of war to see who will be the next President of the United States.

Chief difficulty with elections is their effect on international relations. The British labor government, or instance, cannot support our position regarding Communist China without getting a deluge of criticism from a powerful and quite vocal section of voters.

The French government cannot spend too much on its budget for European rearmament without risking defeat at the polls.

Meanwhile in the United States the MacArthur debate has already become a political row, closely linked with the 1952 presidential race.

Most important of all, pending elections make it difficult for the democracies to act in a hurry in case Moscow should move on one of the many potential war fronts.

All of which is one reason why the year 1951 is such a crucial one when it comes to the question of peace or war.

Strong Statements

Sen. Wayne Morse's recent statement denouncing General MacArthur, despite the fact that most of his fellow Republicans take the opposite view, came after some interesting probing of U. S. public opinion.

The Oregon senator went up to normally Republican Minnesota a short time ago to address a midwest conference of young Republican clubs. There he made some strong statements about MacArthur.

"Our party," More told his fellow Republicans, "can snatch defeat from the jaws of victory by following MacArthur and involving the United States in an all-out war with China without Allies."

"If we must fight to preserve our liberties," Morse continued, "we should fight at the time and place selected by us, not by the enemy.

"The other issue," Morse said, "is whether civilians or the military shall guide the destinies of our foreign policy. We can look south to Argentina to see what happens when a military dictatorship takes over."

Judging from the applause Senator Morse decided that there was considerable GOP support for his stand against MacArthur.

Cpl. John W. Wilson Wounded In Action In Korea Fighting

Mrs. Cecil Lindsey, 1100 East 13th, received word Friday that her son Cpl. John W. Wilson was wounded in action in recent fighting in Korea.

The notification came from a nurse in Korea in a letter dictated in an army hospital by the injured soldier.

It stated that John, better known in Sedalia as Bill, had been wounded in the stomach. He has undergone surgery for the injury and will be transferred to a hospital in Japan as soon as he has recovered sufficiently to be moved.

Mrs. Lindsey also received a later letter written by her 20-year--old son in which he said he was hit April 25. He assured his mother that he was recovering rapidly and soon would be taken to Japan.

Bill entered the army in 1948. Shortly thereafter he was transferred to the occupation force in Japan, and moved to Korea soon after the fighting broke-out.

Assigned as a truck driver in a transportation outfit, the corporal recently was awarded the Bronze Star for bravery in action. He was cited for saving a truck convoy from destruction. Enemy gunfire ignited a truck loaded with ammunition. Bill drove the vehicle off a cliff, jumping just before it went over.

Prior to entry into the army, Bill attended Smith-Cotton.

Two Boys Drown In High Water

JEFFERSON CITY, May 5—(AP)—Two boys drowned here Friday in the swollen waters of Wear's creek. They were Charles Franklin Helming, 14, and his seven-year-old brother, James Edward Helming.

A third boy, Leroy Dewayne Helming, 10, was saved by Emery Bowman, owner of a nearby cafe, and Orville Smith of Centertown, who was driving by.

The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Helming. The bodies were found in about five minutes and firemen tried to revive the boys.

Mrs. Bowman, wife of the cafe operator, said she had warned Charles a short time before about the danger of playing on a raft in the creek.

The stream feeds into the Missouri river, which had backed up to make the water about seven feet deep where the boys drowned. The scene is about three blocks from the river on McCarty street. The drowning occurred at 5:20 p. m.

After the meeting adjourned the club held a white elephant sale during the social hour. Guests from neighboring Striped College club were Mrs. Charlie Bahner and Mrs. Orin Leffler, also Mrs. Donald Donath and Mrs. Beulah Morgan of Sedalia.

Mrs. Ralph Frome and Mrs. E. E. Kasak will be hostesses at the June meeting.

Mexico Unable To Send Troops

ST. LOUIS, May 5—(AP)—Mexico is not ready now to send combat troops to join United Nations forces in Korea, Rafael De La Colina, Mexican ambassador to the United States, said.

The best contribution Mexico can make at the present is strategic raw materials, the ambassador said in an interview. He is here to adress the St. Louis Council on World Affairs.

"While we have been unable to furnish troops, we are contributing such things as rice, chickpeas, and other foods," he declared. "Mainly we are furnishing medicines and food."

De La Colina declined to comment on the Kefauver crime committee report that William O'Dwyer, U. S. Ambassador to Mexico, allowed crime to flourish while he was mayor of New York.

Calling O'Dwyer an old friend, he said, "I think he has been making a splendid ambassador to Mexico."

De La Colina said Communism in Mexico is on the decline. The party there, he declared, is almost nonexistant, with perhaps 15,000 members. He said an offical party in Mexico must have 30,000 registered voters to become officially recognized.

KILLER'S PACE

LARRY STONE came out of it and cringed from Nanabarro in horror. "I tell you I don't know anything. All I saw was old Barney lying on his back with that hole in his face."

I was glad I was an innocent bystander, but I kibitzed: "If you were clean, why did McNamara come here so fast after I saw you yesterday?"

"Why shouldn't I hire a lawyer when I found out you were wise to my being there?"

Nanabarro didn't like having questions answered that way and he brought the gun barrel around against the back of Stone's neck. Stone fell forward and lay groaning on the carpet. I was sure Lou had been a wrestler the way he went to work on Stone.

Stone finally fainted again and they exhausted the seltzer water. "Of course, it's none of my business, but I'm beginning to think the punk doesn't know anything," I said.

Lou moved in and kicked Stone. Bones crunched. Stone did not scream—it was an animal moan. I took the little automatic away from Sonya without finding the slightest resistance on her part. I put my two fingers around its butt and one of them tight on the trigger.

Lou's gun was in his pocket and Nanabarro was saying:

"Had enough? We've got all night."

"No, Nanabarro. It's all over."

He whirled, turning my gun on me. I hated to think of the competition of Sonya's pistol with that, but I said: "Did you ever win a lottery prize?" He shook his head. "Then you aren't lucky enough. Don't try it."

Lou saved face for him. "Let him win this round, boss. You know what he can do—even with a pop-gun like that. He'd make a sieve out of you before you dropped him."

• • •

WITH Sonya beside me in the car and my gun back in its holster, I headed for Fifth Street and reached it about 10 blocks from the Prater office. I debated with myself for a few moments and said to her:

"I wonder if you'd do me a small favor. I've got a little burglary to do. Star pulled off a job at the same spot last night and had a narrow escape. I'll need a lookout. How about it?"

She eyed me with puzzlement. "That shindig at the Prater company? Was that Star?"

I grinned. "You saw his shiner. They've probably got a new watchman on the job tonight and of course he'll probably make the office only once an hour. You sit out back and toot the horn if you see him coming. I'll duck out the front—he'll check the back door because the beat cop checks the front doors."

"Well, it seems like a chance. Is it important?"

"It is. I'm going to steal a yellow, two-piece bathing suit. By the way, it will fit you too."

I turned off two blocks short of the Prater office and turned up an alley that would run back of it. I pulled into a shadowed area about 100 yards from where I figured the rear entrance would be.

"I hope you know what you're doing," she said.

"Me, too. Well, here goes nothing."

There was a new lock on the door, but my special set of keys did the trick.

I went inside and closed the door behind me. I hadn't the slightest idea of where to look for that yellow bathing suit. I thought it altogether possible that Star had swiped it the night before. Its loss was hardly one that Carl Prater would mention to police.

I remembered Sales Manager Wertheim saying that Miss Mayhew had changed in a dressing room. Finally I found a locker room used by all the female help, but no special dressing room for Clara Mayhew. I decided Wertheim had been putting on airs.

I didn't know which locker was Clara's so I searched Wertheim's files. No answer there. Prater's secretary might have the record. I entered his offices and I began to turn desk drawers inside out.

I found seven kinds of nail polish, three stacks of love letters, a folder on the Grand Canyon, a bottle of expensive perfume and various other feminine accoutrements of an interesting nature, but not what I was looking for.

Then it occurred to me that perhaps Clara Mayhew herself might keep the record.

• • •

I WENT out to her desk and tried the drawers. They were locked, but all were locked by one master lock. I got out my keys again, and once more one of them worked. I found nothing of importance in the top drawer. I opened the second drawer, and actually I was still looking for the precious list for a split-second after I had clearly seen the yellow bathing suit.

It was tucked away in the back, but I had pulled the drawer all the way out, and I hadn't spotted it at once because I hadn't been looking for it there. Well, it confirmed my hunch about that bathing suit. Clara Mayhew wasn't leaving it around loose. Her locker would be the obvious place for anybody to look for it, and she was hiding it in her desk.

I reached for it, felt the satiny cloth. I heard a slight sound behind me, let go of the cloth and started to duck. I didn't duck soon enough or fast enough or both—anyway I realized that I had been hit and hit hard. The top of Clara Mayhew's desk was coming up to me, and there wasn't anything I could do to keep it away from my face.

Lists Lost Items on the Hollywood Film Scene

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, May 5 —(AP)— Seated one day at the typewriter, I was wondering what happened to various items on the Hollywood scene.

So today I am running a lost-and-found department. All of these items seem to me lost, and if anyone can find them, let me know.

Whatever happened to Warners' plans to film the life of Will Rogers, with Will, Jr., starring? . . . Paramount's announcement that it would make the life of Billy Rose? . . . 20th-Fox's plans for a picture on Wendell Wilkie's "One World" and something called "The Gay Illiterate"? . . . A number of properties which MGM owns, including "Of Thee I Sing" and "Timberline"? . . . The picture to co-star Bing Crosby and Hopalong Cassidy?

Whatever happened to Turhan Bey? . . . Phil Terry (Joan Crawford's ex)? . . . Butch Jenkins? . . . Anita Page? . . . Gracie Allen's brother? . . . the other Pickens and Boswell sisters besides Jane and Connie? . . . Simone Simon? . . . Orson Welles?

Whatever happened to the proposals for a Hollywood film festival, along the lines of those held abroad? . . . for a Hollywood civic center, to house the Johnston office, guilds, press, etc? . . . for an all-industry conference here to discuss current problems?

Whatever happened to Joan Crawford's plans to do a picture about the plight of schoolteachers? . . . Hedy LaMarr's plans to retire? . . . Henry Koster's plans to film the life of Gorgeous George? . . . Selznick's plans to star Jennifer Jones in "Romeo and Juliet"? . . . Selznick's plans?

Whatever happened to Little Audrey jokes? . . . the people who used to play the organs in movie houses? . . . the big parties that Hollywood used to have? (I guess nobody can afford them any more) . . . the 25-cent movie theater?

While you're trying to figure out the answers, let's listen to a Rhode Island reader who has her own explanation of why movie business is sour:

"Perhaps television is somewhat to blame, but I believe that the reason people have stopped going is because of the sale of popcorn, ice cream and what-have-you . . .

"To have a bunch of rowdies, young people and even older people, sit behind you and crunch on popcorn or such on ice cream cones while you are trying to see a show, is more than people can stand for very long."

Put Out 21 Miles Of Pennies a Day

DENVER, May 5—(AP)—Twenty-one miles of new pennies are turned out now every day at the U. S. mint here. That's how long the line would be if they were plunked down side by side, end to end or top and bottom.

The heavy mileage is due to a nationwide shortage of cent pieces, according to Moses E. Smith, superintendent of the Denver mint.

He estimated today that $90,000 worth of pennies go into gum machines, baby banks and other similar channels each week. And that's five days of production for the local money factory at the current daily average output of 1,800,000 pennies.

Why the shortage? Your guess is as good as anyone's. Including Smith's. He wouldn't speculate.

"All we know is that the banks have been demanding more pennies," Smith said. "We base our production on their requests. Then we store the pennies in the vault until they're ready to be shipped."

The shipments amount to $50,000 and 18 tons a load.

Favors Gardens To Fill Pantries

AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, May 5 —(AP)— Home gardening and home food preservation are important this year because of the uncertainties of the times, Rep. Cannon (D-Mo) told Congress.

"No one knows how great or how small the food supply will be at the end of the crop year in 1951," he said in the Congressional Record.

"No one can predict with certainty the character of the demand and the distribution of fruits and vegetables as they might be affected by military needs and transportation exigencies."

He termed gardens and pantries "very practical storage of food against emergencies. In addition, he said, home gardens, intelligently handled on good soil, are important money savers for low income families.

Cannon spoke in behalf of the National Home Garden and Home Food Preservation Program, sponsored by the Agriculture department.

Girl Scouts are busy people. Mrs. Mary Houhton, training chairman, and Mrs. C. A. Freeberg, vice president of the Sedalia association of Girl Scouts, spent the week at Jefferson City taking a volunteer training course. This course is known as "Teaching You How to Teach." Women were there from Sedalia, Marshall, Mexico, Springfield, Trenton, Jefferson City and McPherson, Kas. Busy housewives who will spend an entire week learning more about Girl Scouting really believe in the good that this program may do.

LET'S TALK ABOUT Mother

Let's talk about Mother from our hearts. Not just from our lips, not just from our pocketbooks, but from deep down where we live. Let's talk about all the wonderful things she does . . . the things that make her "Mother." She's our comforter, peacemaker, champion, friend, guide and stay. She's the one who bandaged our cuts, washed our ears and dried our tears. She's the one we take for granted, because she's never failed us. She brought us into the world, she nursed us, taught and inspired us. She planted within us the roots of good citizenship, nurtured our thoughts and deeds, and built of us good Americans. Let's talk about your Mother and mine . . . but let's do more. Let's remember with love and appreciation all the things that make her mother. Let's do something on May 13th . . . and every day . . . that will make her know that we remember.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

1. If it's possible at all, go to see her. No gift means more than seeing you.
2. If you can't go to see her, call her on the telephone. The sound of your voice wil make her day very happy.
3. Or send her flowers . . . flowers have a tender message all their own.

But whatever you do, remember her . . . she's never once forgotten you.

WHAT CAN WE DO?

We didn't prepare this ad to sell you merchandise. It isn't an effort to sell our goods. But if we can help you in any way to make Mother's Day happier . . . to make Mother's life easier . . . we want you to let us know. Call us . . . or come in. We want to remember Mother, too.

Why Is Mother's Day?

One of the loveliest customs of our times—honoring our mothers—began many years ago . . . In 1907, Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia felt that a day should be set aside in tribute to mother. She incorporated this idea into her church, and the second Sunday in May of that year was set aside by the church as their own Mother's Day. Special services were held and by the next year all churches in Philadelphia observed the custom . . . and each year it spread still further.

By 1911, every state in the United States, Canada, China and many other countries had adopted the custom. In 1912 an International Mother's Day Council was formed . . . and in 1914, Congress designated the day as national Mother's Day.

Final Warning Voiced By MacArthur As He Ends Testimony

day that the President's reasons were "not valid."

He spoke in grave terms of the need for making permanent peace at a time if threatening war.

"Time is running out on us," MacArthur declared, saying modern civilization stands in grave danger of committing suicide.

Then, pouring out details of the conflict that led to his ouster as Far Eastern commander, the general declared:

1—Secretary of Defense Marshall authorized him in a personal message last fall to send his troops across the 38th parallel in Korea—a step opposed by some in this country, and many in allied countries, at the time.

2—The statement (made by President Truman) that he wouldn't let the central intelligence agency operate in his command is "pure bunken." MacArthur didn't mention the President by name, but flatly denied his statement that MacArthur accepted CIA help only after a personal plea from Gen. Walker Bedell Smith.

Refers to "Grave Mistake

Late in the day, MacArthur answered dozens of questions propounded by Senator Morse (R-Ore), admitting at one point that the withdrawal of U. S. occupation forces from Korea in 1949—which he approved at the time—turned out to be "a very grave mistake."

Turning to persent and future questions, he said that if the Soviet Union should go to war it could "punish" Japan, but couldn't capture it so long as the U. S. retained sea and air conrtol.

An the flatly expressed doubt that Russia could succeed in a "Pearl Harbor" attack on U. S. forces in the Far East—an attack so destructive that this country's contribution to western European defenses would be endangered.

He said Russia may be getting more and more wary of lining up too closely with Red China in view of "the increasing strength of this new Frankenstein (monster) that is being congealed and coalesced in China."

He said it would take only a few more ground troops, plus come air and sea reinforcements, to inflict such a beating on the Chinese Reds that they would have to accept a "rational" peace agreement.

His estimate assumed, of course, that the war would be waged as he has wanted to wage it—with bombing of Manchurian bases permitted, a strong blockade of the China coast, and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Reds.

This is the strategy that the administration has turned down, contending it might well lead to World War Three.

Moved to Tears

Two Senators said tears came to MacArthur's eyes, and he almost broke down, when he talked of the events leading up to the presumed death in action of Maj. Gen. Wililam F. Dean, who disappeared last Junly 20 during the battle for Taejon.

The censors transcript of today's hearing shows that MacArthur, among other things:

1—Advised postponing action on universal military training until the present emergency has eased.

2—Refused to give an opinion on how many ground troops should be sent to Europe, calling that a "political controversy" and saying Congress should pay close attention to the advice of the Joint Chiefs.

3—Disclosed that ther were plans at one time to evacuate "the mass of our troops" from Korea to Japan, although he personally didn't think the necessity would arise.

4—Confirmed that he told President Truman at their Wake Island conference last October that the U. S. Second division could be moved from the Far East to Europe in January of this year. That estimate was made before the Chinese Reds jumped into the Korean war.

KEEP FASHION AND FIGURE WISE by reading articles on these subjects in your newspaper and magazines. This doesn't go just for the teenager, but for the miss and middle aged woman as well. You will get tips on new style hints and ways to keep your figure in trim shape. Shop with the idea in mind of being yourself, and not wanting to look like everyone else. What is good for one type, is not right for another and that is one of the worst handicaps of shopping with someone. They will tell you what they, themselves like and it won't be right for you. That is where the importance of having a particular shop and sales girl to help you enters the picture. She will help you select flattering colors and becoming lines. So think about this seriously before your next shopping tour.

Count Turf Scores Surprise To Take 77th Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, May 5—(AP)—The greatest crowd ever to witness a Kentucky Derby yelled itself black in the face today as Count Turf, a field horse, was ridden to glory by little Conn McCreary in the 77th running of the classic.

Never seriously considered in pre-race predictions, the bay son of Count Fleet, the '43 Derby winner, took charge of things about a quarter-mile from home and was running right away from his 19 rivals when he went under the wire.

Royal Mustang came up fast in the run down the stretch to place second. Ruhe finished third and Phil D. another of the five horses which composed the field, was fourth. Not one of the favored colts ever seriously figured in the big scramble.

Pays $31.20 For $2

Count Turf, owned by J. J. Amiel, a New York City restaurant owner, rewarded his backers with a bulging $31.20 for every $2 wagered on him.

Royal Mustang did even better, paying off a whooping $53.00 for the place. It paid back $7.80 for show. Everybody who bet on any of the three was happy, and you could hear them saying so for a long time after the stampede was over.

The victory was worth $98.050 to Amiel, the biggest pay-off in the history of the three-year-old classic. McCreary, who gave the winner a brilliant ride, also scored on Calumet Farm's Pensive in the 1944 Derby. He was really sitting cozy as he brought his mount down the stretch today.

All In The Family

The triumph marks the first time that a grandfather, father and son have won the race. Reigh Count, the daddy of Count Fleet, won it in 1928 from a record field off 22 runners. The Count would have been proud had he watched the third generation perform today.

Count Turf's margin over Royal Mustang was four lengths. Ruhe was third by a head, and he, in turn, was two and a half lengths in front of Phil D., the early leader, at the finish. From there they were strung out for approximately a city block.

The exuberant McCreary said he never was in serious trouble, despite the traffic jam. He said he received a slight bump at the wild first turn, when he was running ninth or tenth, but that his horse appeared to regard the bump as a challenge and really began turning it on after that.

When Count Turf was returned to the barn after the race, it was discovered the shoe on his right rear hoof was loose and required the services of a blacksmith to nail it back. The colt apparently ran at least part of the race with the loose shoe.

Favorite Winds-Up Sixth

Cain Hoy Stable's Battle Morn, which was made a favorite by the crowd of 100,000 or more, never got into the race and wound up sixth, three-quarters of a length behind Fanfare, the Calumet farm colt which won Tuesday's Derby trial.

Eddie Arcaro, who rode four previous Derby winners, held Battle Morn far off the pace until the field streamed into the stretch, and then he apparently couldn't find the opening he sought.

Never before, perhaps, did so many "big" horses fall flat on their faces in the famous race while their lesser liked cousins proved themselves of Derby stature. Here was the final order of the finish:

Count Turf, Royal Mustange, Ruhe, Phil D., Fanfare, Battle Morn, Anyoldtime, Pur Sang, Hall of Fame, Timely Reward, Counterpoint, Repetoire, King Clover, Sonic, Sir Bee Bum, Sunzzle, Fighting Back, Big Stretch, Golden Birch, and Mameluke.

Phil D. Fades

W. C. Martin's Phil D., looked for a long time as though he intended to take it all. He fought his way into the lead going around the first turn and was leading by a head over Hall of Fame at the half-mile. He increased his margin over Hall of Fame to a half-length at the three-quarters and finally relinquished the lead only after having set the pace for almost a mile.

Count Turf ran the mile and a quarter Derby distance in 2:02 3/5. The record for the race and the distance was set by Whirlaway in 1941. His time was 2:01 2/5.

Count Turf paid $31.20, $14.00 and $6.60. Royal Mustang paid $53.00 and $20.80. Ruhe paid $7.80.

Kansas Varsity Drops Grid Tilt To Alumni

LAWRENCE, Kas., May 5—(AP)—The University of Kansas varsity football squad ended its spring drills today by losing to its alumni team, 13 to 6.

The varsity scored first in the second quarter on fullback Bud Laughlin's 3-yard plunge, but the old grads came back for two touchdowns in the second half to earn the decision.

Fullback John Amberg went five yards for the first alumni touchdown in the third period and Don Fambrough kicked the point. Tom Scott, quarterback, passed to Otto Schnellbacher who lateralled to Floyd Tample for the final score of the game. The play covered 22-yards.

Except for fumbles by the alumni, several of them professional football stars, in the first half the game was well played.

Houston Takes Title In Southern Division Of Mo. Valley League

WICHITA, May 5—(AP)—Houston university cinched the Southern division baseball title in the Missouri Valley conference today, trouncing Wichita university 21 to 4.

John Boon, 21-year-old right-hander, went the route for Houston. His only bad inning was the sixth when pitcher Rex McMurray blasted a home run for Wichita with two on.

A dozen singles plus frequent walks by the four Wichita pitchers—the Shockers' entire mound staff—combined to make it an easy victory.

Houston will play the Northern division for the conference title at Tulsa next week.

LAWRENCE, Kas., May 5—(AP)—Outfielder Walt Hicks' grand slam homer in the seventh inning was all it took for Kansas university to beat Kansas State, 4 to 1, in a Big Seven baseball game today.

Big Inning Enables S-C To Stop Lillis

Tigers Advance In Zone Tourney With 3-1 Victory

Three runs in the fourth inning, produced by a walk and three hits, were all the Smith-Cotton Tigers needed to snap the seven-game winning streak of the Lillis Catholic high school "Fighting Irish" at Liberty Park Friday night by a 3-1 score. The victory puts the Bengals in the regional semi-finals of the state high-school championship.

Bill Arnold was on the mound for Smith-Cotton and allowed but four hits in the seven-inning tilt. He struck out six batters, walked none and hit one.

Ronnie Skinner pitched for the Kansas Citians. He gave-up five hits, walked three and struck-out 13 Tiger batters with his blazing fast ball mixed with a good hook.

Dey Hits In Clutch

The fourth began like the previous three innings for the Tigers with Shawver lifting an infield fly to third. Floyd Burton started the ball rolling for the Bengals when he rapped a 2-2 curve ball into left field for a single. He moved to second as Wally Walters drew a base-on-balls. Don Percival then connected for his second straight hit, a sharp single between first and second which scored Burton and sent Walters to third. Percival stole second on the first pitch to Dey. With a 1-1 count Dey, the star of the Jefferson City game, got another timely base-knock, a single to center which scored Percival and Walters. That was all the Tigers needed.

The win made it three in-a-row for Smith-Cotton. They defeated Edgerton's Tigers in the opener of the tourney by a 29-0 score. Eddie Plogsted, slender righthander for the Jefferson City Jays, limited the locals to two hits but was defeated 3-2 Thursday afternoon.

North Kansas City Next

The Tigers next game will be the semi-final of the zone number one regional tournament to be played here next Thursday night against the North Kansas City Hornets, who defeated Jamestown 13-5.

Lillis also made its lone run in the fourth. After two were out, Heider doubled down the right field foul line and scored as Keys picked on the first pitch and sent a whistling line drive single to left.

Don Percival, Tiger second-sacker, played a sparkling field game for the Tigers, handling seven chances without an error. In the first inning he made three assists, one being a brilliant play as he went behind first base to take Yurchak's smash and toss to Burton for the out.

Shawver went behind second for Keys grounder in the second to toss him out by a step in another fine fielding play.

Neve Appointed To Athletic Post At U. Of Wichita

WICHITA, Kas., May 5—(AP)—Norvall Neve moved up to the athletic directorship at the University of Wichita tonight.

He succeeds Jim Trimble, who recently announced his resignation as the Wichita school's director of athletics and head football coach.

President Harry Corbin announced that Neve — formerly Trimble's chief aide and before that backfield coach at Kansas State College, Manhattan—will take the director's post immediately.

Neve has been acting head of the athletic department at the Missouri Valley Conference school since Trimble announced he was stepping down.

Still to be filled is the head grid coaching job. Ralph Miller, successful mentor at Wichita East High School, has been hired as basketball coach to succeed Ken Gunning at Wichita.

A native of Bison, Kas., Neve lettered in all sports at Bison High. At Fort Hays State College he became one of few athletes in the school's history to win letters in three sports all four years—in football, basketball and track.

Harridge Gives Taylor And Harris $100 Fines

CHICAGO, May 5—(AP)—American league President Will Harridge today fined $100 each managers Zack Taylor of the St. Louis Browns and Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators for tactics by their clubs in a rain-threatened game at St. Louis May 1.

Harridge said the Senators were throwing the ball wildly and stalling while the Browns were "swinging at everything" with St. Louis ahead, 5-0, and at bat in the last of the fourth. Rain was falling at the time. If the Senators had batted in the fifth, the game could have been called at that point with the Browns ahead for a St. Louis win.

Subsequently, the rain abated and the game went 13 innings with Washington winning 9-8.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

NO doubt, Sedalia baseball fans have been wondering—wondering about "Ma" Leist, former Sedalian, now of McAllen, Tex. She is still around and rooting for her favorite baseball club. Oh yes, it is the St. Louis Cardinals. We haven't heard from Mrs. Henry Leist better known to her many, many friends in Sedalia as "Ma", since last fall, until a letter came the past week.

Mrs. Leist is an ardent baseball fan and she is for the St. Louis Red Birds whether they are on top or in the cellar. If they are low, she contends until the season closes, something will happen to make them get to the top. If St. Louis was as strong for its team as Mrs. Leist, I don't see how they could ever lose.

In her letter Mrs. Leist wrote that she hasn't been too well because of "this old heart," but knowing "Ma", it is as good as gold. Sick as she claims to be, it isnt' enough to stop her from listening to the baseball games, anyway. "Iam still for them, (the Cardinals) as I am for good Old Missouri, wish I was back there living, it always will be my home."

Well, after Saturday's game the Red Birds climbed back into the top billing. Hope that brings happiness to "Ma" and makes her feel better.

SEVERAL years ago a campaign to get showers put in at Liberty Park convention hall was started with the thought in mind to make the building better equipped for sporting events. It took a long, long time before this was accomplished, but it has been completed. It was done through a "kinda" understanding between the Sedalia Park board and the Central Business College Basketeers.

Convention hall now has four good showers, located in the old "check" room which hasn't been used for years. It is well located in the building and actually makes an excellent shower room. Thanks goes to C. B. C. for making this improvement possible, and thanks to the board for "working along" so it could be accomplished.

The large hallfloor was refinished last winter through the efforts of the Sedalia Lions club. So bad was the floor before the annual Lions club tournament that this group "propositioned" the board on refinishing it. The board went along and this job was completed at little cost to the taxpayers.

Members of the Lions went to the hall for several days and gave the floor a good scrubbing and cleaning. Then the "gang" reported and started with their brushes and finishing materials and now the floor is in excellent condition. It may need another coat of finishing this winter, but it will not take too much effort on the part of anyone in getting the job over.

As a matter-of-fact members of the board say that in another year with the various athletic projects sponsored by clubs, schools and so forth, the old building will be an excellent place for sporting events. It is a goal we have been fighting for, and I hope it won't be long before it is accomplished.

ACCORDING to a clipping recently sent to John Thomas, his son "Bud" has ciinched the shortstop post for the Dayton (Ohio) Indians, of the Class A Central league. At the outset of the season Bud was looked upon as a fill-in until better material was sent down from Toronto. After the first few games the Indians search was over. As of last Sunday "Bud" was hitting a torrid .522, and completely had won the Dayton fan by breaking up a 13-inning game with his timely hitting.

Jack Cooney who is down Muskogee way hasn't been doing too bad for the start of the season. Playing with the Giants in the last ten times at the plate up until Friday, he has hit safely eight times with four blows going for extra bases. In a game with Hutchison he hit two doubles, tripled and singled out of five trips to the plate.

Sedalia is going to hit the BIG TIME in baseball again before long.

Sooners Break 4 Meet Records Against Huskers

NORMAN, Okla., May 5—(AP)—University of Oklahoma track stars set four new meet records in beating Nebraska, 88-42, in a twilight Big Seven Conference dual track meet.

Nebraska took only four first places—the high jump javeline, 100-yard dash and the 220 yard dash—Oklahoma taking the others a d running up enough second and third place points to smother the Cornhuskers.

Jim Wilkinson, Oklahoma, did the mile in 4:24.1 to clip one-tenth of a second off the record set in 1938 by Oklahoman Tim Finley.

Don Crabtree and George Mccormick of Oklahoma ended the 880-yard run in a dead heat. Their time of 1:55 bettered the 1:58.7 mark set in 1934 by Bob Asher, Nebraska.

The Oklahoma mile relay team hung up a record of 3:18.9. The old time was 3:22.8, set by Nebraska in 1934.

Quanah Cox, Oklahoma, won individual scoring honors in the meet. He picked up 11 points for second places in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and first in the broad-jump.

Bettors Find It Hard To Lay Money On Derby In The St. Louis Area

ST. LOUIS, May 5—(AP)—Bettors complaining that placing a wager on the Kentucky derby in the St. Louis area today was like trying to buy a drink during prohibition.

They said only a few bookies ventured forth to take bets and that success came mainly through knowing people.

It was in sharp contract to other derby days when bets were taken in the open from anyone who had the cash.

Heat generated by the Senate crime committee was believed to have brought on the change.

Jayhawks Smash K-State In Meet

LAWRENCE, Kas., May 5—(AP)—The University of Kansas Jayhowks defeated the Kansas State Wildcats, 76½ to 54½, in a Big Seven Conference dual track and field meet today as Jack Greenwood led the winning team with 13 points.

Greenwood won both the 120 yard high hurdles and the 220 yard low hurdles. He placed second in both the broad and high jump.

One meet record and a University of ansas record were broken. The Kansas State mile relay team of Bill Stuart, Dick Towers, Trevor Watson and Thane Baker ran the distance in 3 minutes 20.7 seconds, bettering the old mark of 3:22.2 by Kansas in 1933.

Don Smith broke the Kansas quarter-mile record in 49 seconds flat. It was three-tenths of a second faster than the time of John Jackson in 1946.

Cards Hammer Jim Konstanty To Retake Top

Cubs Knock Braves From League Lead; Yanks Maul Browns

NEW YORK, May 5 — (AP) — Philadelphia's Jim Konstanty, whose relief work earned him the most valuable player award in 1950, went down to his third defeat today as the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Phils 4-3, in 11 innings to move back into first place in the National League.

The Cards supplanted the Boston Braves, who suffered a 2-0 defeat at the hands of Cal McLish and the Chicago Cubs.

Konstanty, who won 16 and lost 7 while appearing in a record 74 relief assignments last year, wasn't entirely to blame for his third loss.

Del Wilber, who accounted for two of Philadelphia's runs with his first homer, made a wild throw and admitted the Cards' winning run. Red Munger started for the Cards and yielded all of Philadelphia's runs before Gerry Staley took over in the tenth. Staley was credited with the victory, his third.

McLish Bests Sain

At Boston, McLish won a brilliant mound duel from Johnny Sain. The righthanders were locked in a scoreless deadlock until the ninth when rookie first sacker Dee Fondy singled home a run. The second Cub run scored on a passed ball.

The Brooklyn Dodgers outlasted the Cincinnati Reds, 12-8, in a game that produced eight home runs, five by Brooklyn and three by Cincinnati.

Gil Hodges led the bombardment with a pair of homers, his seventh and eight of the season. Roy Campanella, Billy Cox and Cal Abrams also homered for the Dodgers. Joe Adcock, Johnny Wyrostek and Bob Scheffing clouted homers for the Reds. Chris Van Cuyk was the winner and Ken Raffensberger the loser.

Giants Continue To Win

New York's comeback Giants scored their fifth victory in six starts by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-3. Captain Al Dark's second grand slam homer of the season in the fifth inning turned the tide. Hank Thompson clinched the game with a two-run homer in the sixth. Rookie Roger Bowman pitched three-hit shutout ball in a five inning relief trick to bag his first victory. Gus Bell and Dale Long homered for the Pirates off starter Jim Hearn. John Koski, who pitched in a class D league last year, started and was charged with the setback.

The New York Yankees thrashed the hapless St. Louis Browns, 17-6, to protect their first-place lead in the American League. The Yanks pounded out 21 hits including home runs by Bobby Brown, Gil McDougald and Jackie Jensen. Yogi Berra contributed three doubles and a pair of singles to the bombardment. Jensen also collected two doubles and a single and Brown a pair of two-baggers.

Raschi Gains Fourth Victory

Vic Raschi opened for the Yanks and gained his fourth victory. He gave way to Joe Ostrowski in the sixth after injuring his arm. It was the Yanks seventh straight victory.

The Cleveland Indians took over second place from the Washington Senators by nipping the Philadelphia A's, 3-2. The Senators dropped a 7-0 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

Big Mike Garcia handcuffed the A's on seven hits. The Indians collected only four hits but bunched them all in the fourth inning to score three runs. Al Rosen's two-run double was the big blow for the Indians. Eddie Joost's homer accounted for Philadelphia's markers.

Bob Cain and Randy Gumpert teamed up to blank the Nats on three hits. Rookie Jim Busby paced Chicago's ten-hit attack against Bob Kuzav and Al Brown with four consecutive singles. Cain yielded Washington's three hits and was lifted in the seventh when he threw 12 straight balls to load the bases. Gumpert came on and retired eight Senators in order to preserve Cain's first victory.

Tigers Edge Bosox

The Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox, 8-7, in 11 innings to knock the Sox out of the first division. The Sox dropped to fifth with Chicago taking over fourth.

Lou Boudreau's wild throw let Dick Kryhoski score the winning run that climaxed a two-run rally. Ray Herbert picked up his third victory in relief. Jerry Priddy homered for Detroit and Walt Dropo socked one for Boston.

Babe Zaharias Ties Patty Berg In Golf Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., May 5—(AP)—Breaking women's par by a stroke, Babe Didrickson Zaharias of Prairie View, Ill., and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Minn., today shared a first-round tie for the second lap of the Cross-Country Weathervane Open Golf tournament.

The pair posted 76's on the rugged Pebble Beach course, which plays to a par 38-39—77 for women. Men's par for the course is 35-36—72.

Mrs. Zaharias hit her usual booming drives and approached well to card a 39-37. Miss Berg, not so long off the tee but a consistent performer all the way, tacked up 37-39.

Mrs. Zaharias, who won the 144-hole Weathervane event last year, is the present leader of the field by 4 strokes through her victory on the first leg at Dallas last month. She teed off today with 149 shots behind her.

Miss Berg was in second place with 153, posted at Dallas. The second round of this 36-hole lap will be played tomorrow.

From here the touring professionals go to Indianapolis, Ind., for the third tournament. The final thirty-six is scheduled for White Plains, New York.

Scores today included Marilynn Smith, Wichita, Kas. 43-46—89.

5 Records Broken As MU Thinclads Rout Notre Dame

COLUMBIA, M.o, May 5—(AP)—The University of Missouri Tigers blasted Notre Dame, 105 to 26, in a dual track and field meet today, cracking five records and equalling another for the event along the way.

Notre Dame managed to win only one event, Paul Ewing taking the 220 yard dash.

Missouri distance runners accounted for two of the new marks. Bill McGuire, senior from New York City, was clocked in a 4 minute 16.4 seconds mile and Sophomore Pete Gallup turned in a 1 minute 56.1 seconds 880.

The other records:

Bob Gorden, high jump, 6-feet-4⅞.

Laddie Stovall, broad jump, 23-feet-2¼.

Bill Fessler, javelin, 187-feet-2¼.

Stovall also equalled the meet record for the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds flat.

Minor League Flashes

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—In the minor leagues, they're talking about:

Big Jim Kirk, an Allentown outfielder in the Interstate League. The former Oklahoma athlete was hitting a bulging .357 in his first seven games. Better keep it quiet, Allentown, or Marty Marion will be snatching him for his Cardinals. Whitey Kurowski, the old Red Bird third baseman, is manager of the St. Louis farm.

Colorado Springs is in a rut. But it's a nice rut. Last year in the first professional game played in the city since 1904, the home club scored seven in the ninth to beat Pueblo, 12-11. So what happens? They meet again in the 1951 opener and Colorado Springs again scores seven in the ninth to win, 10-8. Once again Pueblo took it on the chin. They say Pueblo will ask for another opening day sparmate next year.

Big Car Auto Racing Here Memorial Day

First Project of a Varied Year-Round Activities at Fair

The dreams of its new manager to keep the big, sprawling Missouri State Fair plant humming with varied year-round activities are beginning to take definite form as the first major project approaches.

Headquarters for a gala Memorial Day big car auto race have been established in the offices of Secretary-Manager William E. (Bill) Preston and preparations are already well advanced for the program scheduled Wednesday, May 30.

To Be Annual Affair

Preston, still in his initial year at the helm of the annual Missouri exposition, said today he hopes to establish this year's holiday races as the first in a series of annual Memorial Day competitions.

"We are going to try to give Sedalia and Missouri a dirt track counterpart to the famous Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile race, held the same day," he explained. "It's our idea to attract the greatest dirt track daredevils in America to Sedalia."

In this effort he is being assisted by representatives of National Speedways, Inc., the same promotional organization which directs the events held in connection with the State Fair.

Frankie Luptow Enters

Gaylord White, spokesman for the speedways firm who is in the city to handle entries, said that car owners and drivers are responding with enthusiasm to the suggestion of making Sedalia another "Indianapolis."

Frankie Luptow, the national dirt track kind who sped to wins over all rivals at the 1950 State Fair, was among the first to enter, White said. He will return with his powerful Black Panther Offenhauser.

A mid-summer rodeo, a Fourth of July 100-mile auto race and other attractions are scheduled for the fairgrounds under the plans being carried out by Preston.

Forum By BPWC On Professions

The Business and Professional Women's club held a forum on the professions and vocations for women. The meeting was held at the Smith-Cotton cafeteria May 2nd with 90 senior girls attending.

Mrs. Marie McClure of the Welfare office discussed the duties and qualities of the social service workers. There are different types of nursing and all nurses are in demand stated Mrs. John Murrell, public school nurse. She brought out the fact that nurses training is available at the University Training schools and the hospitals for nurses. She discussed the allied professions such as laboratory technicians and dieticians. Mrs. Murrell told the girls the qualities of good nurses must be high and the love for people essential.

Mrs. Everett White discussed the attitudes the public demands of women in all types of business. The first essentials are cheerfulness, optimism and the ability to get along with people.

Bagnell Dam Annual Boat Races May 13

Drivers of Winning Boats Will Divide Awards of $1,500

The Bagnell Dam boat races, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, May 13, at Bagnell Dam on the Lake of the Ozarks, will be photographed for broadcast over television, Wm. J. Campbell, president of the Bagnell Dam Chamber of Commerce, announced this week.

Arrangements were made with the Hal Parker Studios of Kansas City, television representative in this area, to be present to photograph the races, both from the racing course and ashore.

Expect 9,000 Race Fans

The largest crowd ever to assemble at the Lake of the Ozarks for a single event, is expected by officials of the Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring organization. 7,000 to 9,000 are expected. 5,000 people saw the races last year.

$1,500 cash will be given in prizes to the winning drivers. The races are open to all drivers in the following outboard classes: A service, B service, C service Runabouts, C Hydroplanes, E service runabouts, and a final free-for-all. The St. Louis Outboard Drivers Ass'n. is sanctioning the races this year.

Second Date Chance

In case of extremely bad weather on the afternoon of the races, they will be held the following Sunday afternoon, May 20, same place.

To get to the races, take U. S. Highway 54 to Bagnell Dam, drive ¾ mile south to the main entrance at Frank's Resort. Several loudspeakers will be located along the beach to keep the crowd informed of the progress of the races.

Russians Bid To Take Part In Olympics

VIENNA, May 5—(AP)—The Russian bid to take part in the Olympic games probably will be approved on Monday.

It was learned tonight the executive commission of the international Olympic committee—after two days meetings with the Russian delegation—will report that the Russians are familiar with Olympic rules and have agreed to abide by them.

With such a report, the full Olympic committee is expected to approve the application.

An informed source pointed out the Olympic creed and program makes no mention of politics and that its avowed policy is to welcome the youth of the world regardless of race, color or creed.

There were indications, however, that two schools of thought existed in Olympic circles regarding the Russians:

1. That they should be welcomed with open arms on the theory that any east-west differences would disappear on the field of sports, and

2. That the bid to join should be suspect because the differences already are too great to be reconciled.

It was believed that the "join with us" school would prevail.

Teen-Age Blues To Windsor Today

The Teen-Age Blues will trip to Windsor today where they will play a return game with the Junior Legion team. The game time is 2:30 p. m.

Behind the seven-hit pitching of C. A. Smith last week the Teen-Agers came out with an 8-4 victory of the Windsor aggregation. Windsor will endeavor to even up the second game of a series to be played this year between these two ball clubs.

Starting lineups for today's game have not been announced by either team manager, both who indicated there is a good chance of a shifting of the players in positions. The past week saw a hard workout for the local team at the Housel Park diamond.

Manager Slocum indicated either Wiley, Walter, Fisher or Smith will pitch today's game with Lees on the receiving end for the Blues. He requests all players to report to Housel park by 12:30 p. m. for the trip.

The Windsor ball park is located on Highway 52 just east of Windsor.

Arts and Charity Club Meeting

The Josephine Silone Yates Art and Charity club held its regular meeting in the dinning room of Hubbard high school with Prof. J. B. Hylick as host.

The meeting was profitable and interesting and was presided over by the president, Mrs. D. F. Richards.

Prof Hylick gave an informative talk concerning the proposed school levy and the club went on record of favoring the Sedalia public school levy in the coming election.

During a social hour refreshments were served.

The dedication of the Ecumenical Register of Protestant church women was in charge of Mrs. Fred Rose, Ecumenical chairman. The president or appointed representative of each of the 13 affiliated churches formally presented the register of her her church. A total of 187 names were submitted.

Mrs. William Sims, who is co-chairman wit hMrs. Gano Stearns of the "Church Women," official organ of Unity Church Women, emphasized the features of the magazine and the help that could be derived from regular reading o it.

Mrs. William Sims, who is co-chairman with Mrs. Gano Fearns of the "Church Woman" official organ of United Church Women, emphasized the features of the magazine and the help that would be derived from the regular reading of it.

Pause For Prayer

The practice of pausing daily at noon for praying the prayer sent out by the United Church Women was adopted by the groups and copies of this prayer were distributed. Persons who would like to participate in this practice may have a copy by contacting Mrs. Liebel.

Mrs. Parke Green, chairman of the committee on Christian Social Relations, led a service of worship based on the theme, "Thank God for Work." She presented Mrs. Rose Leibbrand, who led the forum, "Women at Work."

Miss Leta Bradney spoke on "Women in professional and volunteer church work." She pointed out that three fourths of all persons engaged in religious work are women and that a survey showed that of 111 denominations showed that 41 accept women as ministers.

"Women in teaching, nursing and medical professions" was discussed by Mrs. John Murrell. Mrs. Murrell said the United States spends less on education than Great Britain or Russia. The church has a right to expect that children be taught to have respect for religion, she said. She explained the difficulties encountered by women medical students and told how discrimination was carried on after graduation by the general public, doctors and women themselves.

Talk On Negro Activities

Mrs. B. C. Brock talked on "Negro Women's Activities" and stated that there were too few opportunities for employment of Negro women in Sedalia and no opportunity for skills. She expressed the belief that employment should be based upon ability not pigmentation. It was brought out from the floor that Sedalia Negroes with master degrees are now employed in Washington, D. C. and elsewhere but there are no opportunities open to them in Sedalia.

Mrs. Elmer Maune discussed women a shomemakers and in community service and stressed the fact that while homemakers should see that their homes run smoothly they should also take an interest in what is going on in their community.

Mrs. John Greissen indiscussing "Citizenship Activities of Women" said there are far too few women in public office and on public boards in this city. She said that it isn't enough to encourage certain laws women should watch to see that the laws are enforced, because God is working through them.

It takes more than courage, she said to express one's opinion acros sone's own dinner table or to a social group than to write one's congressman, important as that is. Mrs. Greissen stressed the importance of passing state fair employment laws, guaranteeing jobs regardles sof racial or national orgin. he welfare of each individual is the welfare of society a sa whole.

The committee which prepared and served the luncheon was made up of members of affiliated churches with Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. Cecil Owens as co-chairmen.

Wallace Theodore Croy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Croy of St. Louis, former Sedalians, was with the Missouri National Guard Fighter Wing unit of St. Louis that is stationed at Bergstrom Air Base, Austin. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Roach, 411 West Fifth, this city and also Mrs. Ella Croy of Sedalia.

Negro Council In Approval Of School Levy

Prof. Hylick In Address After A Dinner Meeting

The Negro Community council held its regular meeting Thursday, May 3, at Hubbard school, with the president, Carl Abbott presiding. Prof J. B. Hylick invited the council to a dinner at 7 p. m. which was an hour earlier than it usually meets. Members expressed themselves as enjoying the repast and asked Prof. Hylick just how often could this type of entertainment be made possible.

After the dinner the council went to the Hubbard school library for its regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president. After the minutes and old business was completed new business was presented. Prof. Hylick spoke on the school levy giving the council the cost per pupil in average daily attendance at national average, average for cities between 10,000 and 30,000, the average for Missouri and the average for Sedalia. Mr. Hylick also discussed the average salary of the employes of the school system in Sedalia as compared to the national salaries of other school employes.

"Solve Many Problems"

Mr. Hylick also stated that there are 630 high school districts in the State of Missouri and that Sedalia ranks practically at the bottom. He stated that some of these districts have voted the tax levy for 4 years. Not 75 cents for one year but some as high as $2.00 per four years. He told them that as a result of this school levy, if passed, that the school system will solve some of its many problems in the following areas: Supervisor of Music, Supervisor of Art, Speech Correctioness, Driver Training, Vocational Agriculture, and teachers of English and Social Science. He stated that there are several areas in the school system which have problems and will also be benefited by this proposed school levy, if passed.

Mr. Hylick was asked the question "What would Hubbard school get?" He answered by saying whatever benefits came to the system Hubbard school would certainly receive its share. It is promised a combination teacher in Social Science and English, Aid for the athletic department and the supervisors of music and art will work with the Hubbard school teachers. Hubbard is expected to benefit in the Driver Training also. Prof. Hylick stated to its group that in the not too distant future he hoped that vocational agriculture would be offered at Hubbard since more than half of the pupils at Hubbard are from farming areas. Questions were asked Prof. Hylick about a playground for our children, a Home Economics Department and a cafateria since more than half of our children are transported and have no place to eat. Mr. Hylick told them that the superintendent was talking about and thinking about the situation, as well as all of the people on the north side and that not too far in the distant future something will be done about these two vital problems.

After several other question had been answered the Council voted unanimously to support the school levy.

Other members present were: R. E. Lee, F. D. Ferguson, Dr. A. R. Maddox, the Rev. J. Y. Jackson, Price Alexander, Prof. C. H. Gooch, the Rev. F. C. Wharry, the Rev. A. M. Todd. The only member absent was the Rev. L. D. Hardiman.

Demonstration On Arrangement Of Flowers

Mrs. Gilbert Miller of Kansas City, a regular contributor to the garden page of the Kansas City Star and a graduate of the Bright School of Design in Chicago, gave a demonstration and lecture in flower arrangement Friday at the First Christian church.

Before a large group of Garden club members and others interested in the effective use of cut flowers, using as her topic, "Simplicity in Flower Arrangement" Mrs. Miller said that flower arrangement is considered one of the fine arts but should be cultivated only to the extent of pleasing effect and simple design.

Mrs. Miller's theory of arranging flowers for pleasure rather than for many rules was demonstrated as she prepared a number of attractive exhibits of spring flowers.

Of particular interest was the use she made of mechanics which include holders, clay and various wires all needed to make a substantial arrangement.

Mrs. Oscar DeWolf, president of the Sedalia Garden club council, presided over the meeting.

Out-of-town guests were James S. Jackson, editor of the garden page of the Kansas City Star, Mrs. H. I. Eager, general chairman for the state convention of the Federated Garden clubs to be held in Kansas City, June 7 and 8; Mrs. J. W. Steel of Kansas City, a registered parlimentarian and members of Garden clubs for nearby towns which included Windsor, Green Ridge, Cole Camp, Otterville, Stover and Knob Noster.

The demonstration was sponsored by the exhibit committee of the Sedalia Garden club council with Mrs. E. W. Rucker and C. L. Carter acting as co-chairmen.

Ministers For The School Levy

The North Side Ministerial Alliance met in its regular meeting at Wards Memorial Baptist church with the president, the Rev. H. L. Wilson, presiding. Mrs. Wilson called for the minutes of the last meeting which were read and adopted. He asked that all business be suspended in order to have Prof. J. B. Hylick, principal of Hubbard school, talk to them about the proposed school levy. Mr. Wilson presented, without further preliminaries, Prof. Hylick who was the main speaker for the morning. Prof. Hylick talked briefly and presented facts to the Ministerial Alliance showing the great needs for the levy. After the discussion several questions were asked. The Ministerial Alliance agreed to go on record as favoring the proposed school levy.

Members of the Alliance are: Rev. H. L. Wilson, president; Rev. G. O. Gillum, vice president; Rev. F. C. Wharry, Rev. J. Y. Jackson, Rev. B. C. Brock. Rev. L. D. Hardiman, secretary and reporter.

Getting Busy For Flowers And Gardens

Late Spring Caused Delay in Much Of Work Planted

All around the yard flowers are coming up and the first blossoms of spring have come and gone.

Spring—regardless of the early Easter and the many predictions this year of an early spring, is very late and garden work that should have been done is still undone.

It is time to get busy now and rake the yards and burn the trash. It is time to spade the gardens for seed bed and soon the seeds should be planted.

Most of the perennials are already several inches tall and some are ready to bloom but it is time to put others in the bed, too. There should be a feeding of the old perennials and the shrubs. The garden should be tidied up with dead pieces of stalks cut, and plants staked.

Some Perennials

Making the summer show are platycodon, which some people consider dull but which we consider one of the most satisfactory of all perennials with its large star like waxen white flowers or flowers of purplish blue; perenial canterberry bells, plumbago, a small vivid blue edger, delphinium, heather, lythrum, baby breath, oriental poppies, phlox and the old fashioned hollyhocks. These come up year after year.

To fill in the beds or for beds just by themselves are the annuals, which bloom one year and are gone, that is unless they are the kind that seed themselves. The flowers such as snapdragons, zinnias, marigolds, and dozens of others make a glorious array during the summer and are inexpensive and easy to grow. They are particularly nice for flower lovers who do not own their own homes and yet want to have a flower garden.

Roses, both the climbers and the bush roses, always make a grand display and one of the nicest for color and effect as well as easy culture is the floribunda.

Shrubs are always good and can be selected for bloom from early to late fall. They make a good showing and are very little work.

Now is the time to get out the yard furniture and paint it up as well as see about the trellis, arbors and fences. They may need fixing or painting and they add to the looks of your home.

Be sure to have all the rubbish hauled away because such things are fire hazzards as well as beng untidy.

It is time to paint-up-fix-up-clean-up both inside and out for it is everybody's civic duty to make their home a place of beauty.

Flower Gardens

It matters not how tiny
Or how large a home may be,
If it has a garden setting
Its a lovely sight to see.

It may be a formal garden
With expensive flowers and shrubs;
It may simply be petunias
In boxes, beds or tubs

It may cost a lot of money
For landscaping and for care,
Or a few cents for flower seeds
May produce a garden rare.

It may be a child's garden
That he watches day by day,
Or one planted by a person
At the sunset of life's way;

But whoever grows a garden
Has something he can share
With his friends and with his neighbors
Or a stranger passing there;

And a town that's full of gardens
Gay with brilliant colored flowers,
Lingers in a traveler's memory—
And may such a town be ours.

Arrangement And Colors in Home Attract

Satisfaction Hard To Attain in All That is Desired

The most contented women in the world are the ones who are satisfied with their own homes. Of course no woman is completely satisfied, if she has a limited amount of money to spend on her home furnishings she buys what she can afford and there are many other things she would like to have, but if she has plenty of money to buy what she needs then she doesn't know just what she really wants and she probably buys too much. The point of being satisfied either way is to be certain that her judgment in home furnishings is just as good as her best friend or her next door neighbor. She isn't unhappy because somebody has antiques, and although she may not fancy antiques she thinks that is the thing and is unhappy because she doesn't have some or she may not like modern furniture but wants its because somebody else has some.

Best For Livability

The main thing is that she has to live in the house and she should let her own personality have full sway. She should buy the things she likes and use the colors she likes regardless of what anybody else does. Some of her friends will most certainly go away and say they think her house is a fright, the colors are too bright or too dull, they don't like the carpet because it is plain or they don't like it because it has a flowered pattern, they won't like her walls because they are solid color or they think it is too gay with flowers—there are sure to be people who don't like her ideas of furnishing a home but if she likes it that is all that matters.

Today the stores are filled with everything to make a home beautiful. Furniture of all types to fit into any kind of house she might have, carpets in floral design or plain that go from wall to wall that leave part of her floor around, whichever she likes the better, wall paper with bunches of violets, roses or magnolias, with stripes or designs, or maybe just plain, and if she wants, paint that will cover the old paper and make lovely pastel walls.

Draperies may be of a number of materials and like the wallpaper and carpets there are flowered and plain to choose from. Cornices increase in popularity, and may be painted, or covered with drapery material or plastic.

Curtains Exquisite

Curtains are beautiful at any price but the newest, though a little high, are exquisite. They are lace ruffled Priscillas. Lace panels, marquisettes, nylons and other materials are sure to add a fresh and homey look to any house.

Bathrooms may be any color and combination of colors are often surprising and attractive. The favorite bathroom color is green and that may be because it combines well with most all other colors. The second choice is peach and perhaps for the same reason.

The kitchen, where a good part of a woman's day is spent, should be bright and cheerful. It is easy to modernize now, if not all at once it may be done by degrees. Red is still a kitchen favorite but yellow is becoming very popular.

But, as we started out to say, it doesn't matter much what color she chooses for what as long as it is what she likes that is the main thing. It is her own touch, her own ideas that give the home real charm.

Sedalia Is Building Fast With New Homes Everywhere

All over Sedalia new houses are going up, many of them in groups. In fact there are so many everywhere and they all look so new that it is hard to tell whether they are this year's or last year's.

There are all types, too. Perhaps one that has caused as much comment as any in town is the new ranch type house that is being built at 600 West Third street by Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson, because it is where many people walk by as well as ride by. Daily passersby watch the progress as well as the children of the neighborhood, some of them little Andersons.

The Anderson home has seven rooms, a utility room and two baths. One bath is in corolyn color and is a big one for the four Anderson youngsters. There are two boys and two girls and to keep the fussing down about who is—or maybe isn't going to wash first—they are putting in two lavatories so that the two girls can wash at the same time and the two boys at the same time—if they desire. The bath off of the master bedroom is green. On the west side of the living room will be a fireplace. There is to be a big picture window in front and the walls will be painted. The utility room will be in natural wood. The home will be of red brick.

Out on West Broadway at 1601 is another house that is being built with youngsters in mind. It is the big red and white modified colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. William Staley, Jr. The living room and dining room will have wainscoating of knotty pine and the kitchen will have the same—in an effort, says the young mother, to keep away little fingerprints—or at least keep them from showing so much. There will be three bedrooms and a room over the garage. These will have white woodwork. In this house too, there will be two bathrooms, a large one and a small one. The large one in this house will also have two lavatories. Both bathrooms will be of ceramic tile.

There will be a fireplace with knotty pine that goes to the ceiling and on one side will be a bookcase on the other side a window with a deep sill with doors, two doors to match the ones in the book case. The house has yet to get its finishing touches with white shutters and chimney, and the stoop over the front door, turnposts in front and a little fancy railing.

Across the street is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Trotter but the Trotter home faces on Beacon not Broadway, and the house number is 720.

There is a large picture window in front which is in the living room and a big window in the dining room with French doors out onto a terrace. The ranch-type house has six rooms and is of red brick. It has a two-car garage. The bedroom woodwork is white and the living room and dining room of dark green. The living room paper is striped and the curved wall between the dining room and living room is dark green with chartruse figure.

The kitchen has yellow woodwork and the paper has a gray background with yellow flowers.

Next door to the Trotter home on the west is one just completed by Ed Goetz at 1606 West Broadway. Mr. Goetz designed the home himself and did most of the refinishing inside. He built the cabinets and laid the hardwood floors and finished them.

State Fair boulevard is lined with new houses on both sides, among them being one that was built by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rouchka, 1100 State Fair boulevard. It is six room white frame with a red roof all on the first floor and has a full basement. It has a living room, dining room and kitchen and three bedrooms. Just as the Rouchkas moved into the new home they had another member added to their family, a new daughter.

Out on Sneed are several new houses and among them are twin houses, one at 1211 and one at 1213, built by C. T. Flippin. They have living room, dinette, kitchen and two bedrooms, and bath. The one at 1211 is occupied by the Flippin family and the one at 1213 by Mr. and Mrs. William Faulkner who moved into their new home on February 22 and since that time have added a daughter to their family. They also have a son.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson, Jr., 1602 West 14th is located also in a group of new houses. It is a five-room frame house with living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bath and a full basement, and it has a fireplace in the living room. It still needs a few little things done to it but it is complete enough that the family has moved in.

Now Time to Get the Spring House Cleaning Under Way

"'Tis time for spring cleaning and it is never easy but when we look back to the turn of the century and the even harder years before that—well—maybe there is not so much to complain about.

One housewife who is having her wallpaper steamed off shook her head in distress because she had worked all morning trying to get her wall to wall carpets up that were securely—too securely, tacked down. It was one terrible job—but that was just what her mother went through every spring and maybe fall, too, we wouldn't know. Anyway the spring cleaning was a regular taking up of wall to wall carpets—securely tacked down—putting them on the clothesline or on the ground and beating and beating and beating them. Sometimes papa did it, or one of the boys in the family—when he was made to, or maybe an odd job man—but sometimes mama had to do it herself. Then the carpet had to be brought back in and tacked down again.

You didn't just turn off the furnace and maybe clean it or have it cleaned. You had to take down all the stoves out the first of May or maybe the last of May—or sometimes, and that was another little job for papa.

All the big fat feather beds had to be tugged out-of-doors and hung on the clothesline to air and a sudden spring thunderstorm caused a mad rush to get them in again.

Scrubbed and Tubbed

Everything was scrubbed and tubbed but the hot water didn't come from the faucet of the kitchen sink—it came from a steaming teakettle on the old wood or coal stove. It fact none of the water, even the cold, came from the kitchen sink—it came from the well out in the yard. It had to be drawn up with a bucket or pumped and then carried into the house.

Well, it isn't as bad as it used to be, that is one thing sure, but spring housecleaning is still a terrific job in the eyes of the housewife.

In the spring the dirt accumulated during the winter stares her in the face and she doesn't know where to start. She usually starts in the closets and it is the only time of the year she thinks she too much closet space. Maybe she makes a decision to buy more plastic bags which help her tremendously in cleaning.

Try Inside Painting

Sometimes she has her painting done and sometimes, if the painting is inside, and she can't talk her husband into doing it or having it done, she tries it herself. Quite often she does all right at it, too, and then again she doesn't. And that reminds us of a story of a young woman who decided to paint her kitchen. She was doing nicely when the ladder got tired and started to fold up. She fell off and that wouldn't have been so bad, since she wasn't hurt, but the paint fell, too, and landed on her head.

It was thus that her husband found her when he came home and the tears that she had held back until he arrived came in a torrent. She was indeed a mess. After she had her cry out on her husband's shoulder she began to see what she could do about getting herself cleaned up—but painting the kitchen was no job compared to that.

Her skin was red and sore from rubbing but she did get results—however—when it came to her hair—that was a different story. There wasn't a thing she could do but visit a beauty shop and there wasn't a thing the beauty operator could do but dye the hair—and it had to be black—and so for awhile a girl with chestnut brown hair—became a vivid brunette not because she wanted to but because she had to.

But never-the-less she still does her bit of painting where she can and digs into the spring housecleaning like all the other housewives.

It is a rather good feeling, even if the girls do complain, to open the windows wide and smell the clean freshness of soap and water. Even the odor of paint isn't so bad when she thinks how nice her house will look and she works like fury with wax and plastic to give the house a shine and to make her daily tasks easier.

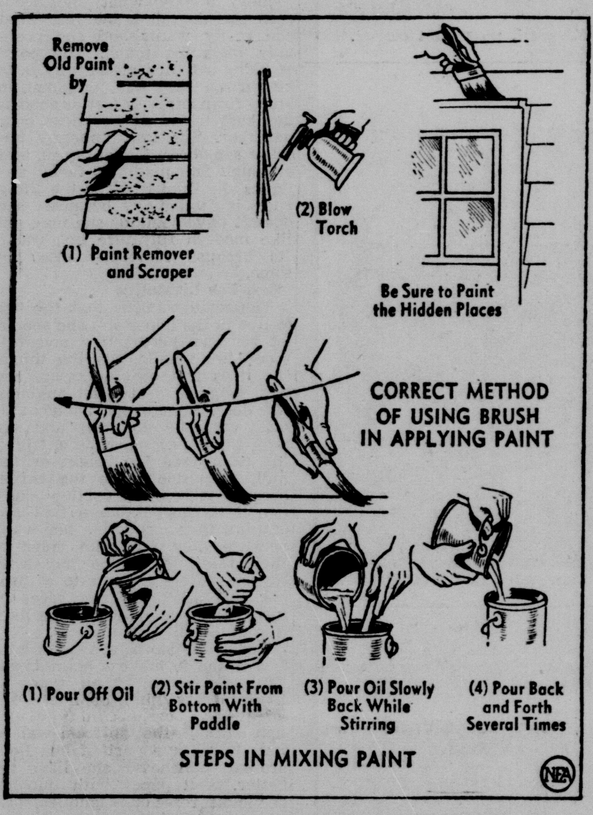
Check The Condition of The House Before Painting



These hints will help you do a professional-looking job.

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

If you are an average homeowner, chances are that your house needs painting badly. At least, that is what the statisticians say. So take a quick look outside to see if they are right.

Before painting, however, check the condition of your house and correct all structural defects. The joints, flashing, siding and tin work must be sound and secure to prevent entrance of moisture.

As long as the original paint adheres firmly to sound wood, light sanding or wire-brushing is sufficient to ready the work for painting. But when the paint has blistered, peeled or checked, it must be completely removed.

If this destruction occurs only in small areas, scraping is sufficient, although it is difficult to avoid a patched appearance unless all the paint is removed over a considerable area.

Where defects are widespread, the old paint should be removed with a blow torch and putty knife. To use, move the torch evenly and carefully over the painted surface with the flame pointed slightly downward, melting the paint just far enough ahead of the putty knife so the knife can thoroughly remove the paint. The torch nozzle should be held three to four inches away from the surface being cleaned in order to soften the paint film.

Good painting requires good materials. That means both your brush and paint. Go to a reputable dealer and let him advise you about the best types of materials for your particular home.

Red Brick

Jerry Trotter home, 720 Beacon.

The quantity of paint required for a job is determined by roughly computing the overall area in square feet and deducting for the various openings. Coverage is about 500 square feet per gallon for primer and 600 square feet per gallon for finish coat.

When painting a house, work from the top down. Painting is a fair-weather job, so plan to do it this fall when the weather is settled. Another reason for choosing this season is that leaf-bearing shrubbery close to the house will be bare.

Many painting failures may be traced back to the fact that the surface was either damp or drenched with sunlight while being painted. Always paint behind the sun; that is, start working in the morning on a portion of the house that the sun has just left and, as the day progresses, follow it around the house.

In working on siding, the edges should be painted first, then the faces. Do only a few boards at a time in order to avoid unsightly laps caused by brushing over paint that has already set. If the paint is laid on evenly and brushed out carefully, there will not be any runs and sags and the thin, economical coat will adhere properly to the surface.

A common fault is to paint visible surfaces carefully but to neglect the bottom edges of siding, the tops of door and window frames, and other places that do not meet the eye. As these are the spots where moisture collects, covering them is important from the standpoint of protection.

For painting in high places, an extension ladder is ideal. If two ladders are available, by all means secure a pair of ladder irons so you can run a plank between them. A stepladder is handy when painting the lower part of the house.

Fix-it Forum

Q—What type of wax should be used on asphalt tile?—Mr. F.D.

A—Water-emulsion or self-polishing waxes that are free from oils are suitable and safe for asphalt tile. They should be applied as instructed by the manufacturers. Never use paste wax or liquid wax that has a solvent base on asphalt tile. These waxes will soften the tile and mar the surface.

Repair Those Dangerous Cracks In the Flooring

By Mr. Fix
Distributed by NEA Service

Highly waxed floors are old standbys for cartoons about the unwary man-of-the-house who suddenly finds himself doing a back-flip or sliding across the living room on a skating rug.

You can fall just as hard, however, when you trip on cracks that develop between the boards of wood floors. These cracks aren't very pretty to look at, either, whether you contemplate them from a standing position or close-up from the spot where you landed when you tripped.

Filing cracks in the flooring is just as simple as indicated above.

If the cracks are caused by shrinking floorboards in a new house, which is what happened in the home of one reader of this department, you have good reason to suspect the builder put down unseasoned flooring. In this case you'll propably wind up with some pretty wide-open spaces to fill in.

Under normal conditions, minor cracks—say up to about an eighth of an inch wide—can be packed with a plastic wood that matches the color of your floor. You can also use a mixture of sawdust and shellac, or sawdust and glue, which is preferable for bigger cracks.

Do your filling on a day when the humidity's high, and if it's cold out, have the house very warm so the boards will be at their maximum expansion. Otherwise they'll squeeze the filling out some later day.

When the boards have shrunk so much that packing filling between them looks like a hopeless job, you can cut narrow strips of wood (or have them cut at a millwork shop) and glue them into the gaps. Unless you get a perfect match you'll have a refinishing job on your hands.

In extreme cases, even the best patching job probably will leave you unhappy at the way it looks when you've gotten up off your hands and knees.

If the trouble is in just one room, you might want to hide it with wall-to-wall carpet (with a good protective matting underneath).

In entrance foyers, or similar small floor areas, a good answer is covering the whole thing with linoleum or asphalt tiling. Your floor covering dealer will tell you how much you need for a particular space, and will give you directions for doing the job properly.

You'll wind up with a floor that's a lot easier to keep clean, under the traffic of wet shoes and muddy feet, than a wooden one.

Q—How do I get rust out of a bathtub?—R. R.

A—If the rust is a stain caused by iron in the water, a weak solution of oxalic acid (get it at your hardware store) ought to do the trick. Don't leave it on very long, and follow up with a weak ammonia solution and a thorough rinsing. Lemon juice and salt will remove minor rust stains. If the rust is caused by a spot worn through the porcelain to the iron base, clean away the rust with steel wool and apply several coats of heavy white enamel over the spot.

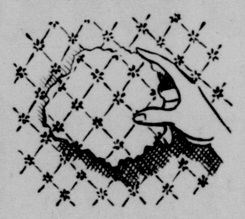
Well-Cared-for Wallpaper Lasts Longer

If the Paper Is Washable Use a Sponge or Cloth With a Mild Soap Water Solution

A Dough-Type Cleaner Is Safest Method to Remove Dirt

Make Patch's Outline Irregular by Tearing It, Not Cutting



Matching and Repairing a Damaged Section

By BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

Has Junior left a smudgy reproduction of his fingerprints on your wallpapered walls? Or have you had an unfortunate accident, when moving furniture around, that gouged a piece out of your wallpaper? Don't worry. These and other wallpaper difficulties can be simply remedied.

Most of the modern wallpapers, being washable, are easily cleaned with a mild solution of soap flakes and warm water. First of all make sure that all loose dust and dirt have been removed by going over the entire surface with a soft cloth.

Wet both the dirty spot and surrounding area with the soap solution and wash with free, easy strokes. Then, immediately rinse thoroughly with clear, cold water.

Many of the inexpensive papers are not washable and so great care should be exercised when a cleaning job is done. There are many cleaners on the market, the most popular of which is a putty-like substance that can be purchased in paint or hardware stores.

It is used by taking a fair-sized mass in the hands and working it until it is warm and plastic. Then, the wallpaper is simply wiped with the cleaner in long, even strokes, and in the same direction.

Because the outside of this cleaner constantly gets dirty, the mass should be constantly worked in the hands, so that the fresh clean parts are brought to the surface.

To remove grease or oil spots from wallpaper, press a piece of white blotting paper against the spot with a hot iron for several minutes. Most of the grease will melt and will be soaked up by the blotter. Another method makes use of a thick paste of Fuller's earth and benzine or carbon tetrachloride, applied in a thin coat over the spot. After it is dried, it is brushed off.

Ink spots can be removed with ink remover, a liquid obtainable in stationery stores. This will probably remove the pattern in the wallpaper, too, but, if the spot is small, the paper can be repainted with water-color paint such as children use. With a little care and an eye to matching color, even patterns can be restored to the paper.

Whenever wallpaper becomes loosened at the edges it is a simple matter to stick it back into place with ordinary library paste. Press down tightly, using a clean blotter to protect the paper.

When bulges occur in paper, a slit made through the bulge with a razor edge will allow paste to be forced behind the paper. Then, press the paper carefully with a soft cloth.

If wallpaper has become badly torn or defaced, it will be necessary to apply a patch and if this is done carefully the defect should be practically invisible.

When there is an extra piece of the wallpaper on hand, select a portion to match the pattern and tear off; tearing being from the back to leave edges that are thin and feathery. The paper should not be cut because sharp edges cannot be concealed. The patch is then covered with paste and applied to the wall in match with the pattern, the edges being slightly brushed and rubbed into contact. By using enough paste, the patch can be slid to the exact matching position.

To match paper that is faded, place the new piece directly in the sun and leave it till it has faded to exactly the wall's paleness. Then match the patch carefully as it is put on.

Q—I wish to paint an aluminum storm door white. How do I go about it?—V. K.

A—Wash with paint thinner. Apply a coat of metal primer which does not contain lead. Apply one finish coat, or two if needed, of house paint or enamel.

Make use of escarole, as well as lettuce, in a tossed green salad. This crisp and delicious green is an excellent source of vitamin A, the food nutrient that helps prevent respiratory diseases.

If you want to keep small scatter rugs from slipping, sew some old rubber jar rings to the underneath corners; the rings should help to anchor the scatter rugs down.

The Replacing of Window Panes is Simple Task

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

For some reason or other, which may be related to snowballs, chunks of ice or excess juvenile activity brought on by cold weather, a lot of windows seem to get broken in the wintertime.

The casualty rate on window glass is high in spring and fall too, due to an understandable lack of caution in junior's baseball and football activity, but in winter the sudden rush of cold air through a broken window dictates immediate action.

You can take the necessary action yourself (leaving junior's punishment until later) with very little exertion. All you need is a ruler, a medium-sized wood chisel, putty, a putty knife and, of course, a piece of glass.

First thing to do is remove all the broken glass, wearing gloves to protect your fingers so you can go back to the nice warm fire and the canasta game without stopping for first aid. If some little splinters of glass still stick to the window frame, you can scrape them away with the chisel when you remove the old putty and the glazier's points.

Then measure all four sides of the window opening carefully. Deduct no more than an eighth of an inch all around to allow for irregularities and expansion, write down the figures and take them to your hardware store.

You can cut the glass yourself if you want to (and have some around the house to cut). If you know how, you probably don't need the advice of Mr. Fix. Your hardware dealer can do it better and quicker, and if he breaks the glass while he's cutting it, it's his loss and not yours.

While you're at the store, get some glazier's points (No. 1 or 2 size will do nicely) and some fresh putty if you haven't any at home.

When you get back to the glassless window, put the new glass someplace where you won't step on it. Apply a liberal coat of linseed oil in the grooves where the glass fits (the technical term for the grooves is rabbets) so the putty won't soak into the wood and dry out. Then spread a thin layer of putty in the grooves.

Press the new glass into the putty until the putty oozes up around the edges, making a tight seal, and then press in the glazier's points with the flat side of the chisel. Now roll your new putty into strips the size of a pencil, press it into place along the edges of the glass, and smooth it with the putty knife into a neat, even bevel.

Here's Right Way to Care For Linoleum

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

New linoleum is smooth, shiny and attractive, but it quickly becomes shabby and worn if it is not protected. Regardless of whether the linoleum is used for floor coverings, kitchen counter tops, or walls, it will stay attractive longer and wear better if waxed and polished.

The six following rules will add years to its life and attractiveness: (1) dust daily; (2) use water sparingly; (3) clean with special linoleum cleaner, mild soapsuds or mild detergent solution; (4) apply wax in a thin, even film; (5) rewax only as needed, usually not oftener than once a month; and (6) never use abrasives harsher than fine steel wool to take off spots that are hard to remove.

A common cause of trouble with linoleum is due to improper methods of cleaning. Scouring powders or coarse soaps should never be used, for their alkalies destroy the base materials of the linoleum. It should never be flooded with water, as in mopping, for water works through the joints and loosens the cement.

Cleaning should be with cloths dampened by suds of a pure and mild soap or detergent. This is followed by cloths dampened with clear water to take up the dirt and cause the linoleum to dry quickly Newly-laid linoleum should not be washed for at least 10 days.

After the floor is completely dry, apply a thin coat of water-soluble wax. Several thin applications, buffed between each application, are more satisfactory than one heavy coat.

Printed linoleum usually has a coat of lacquer applied at the factory. It may be re-lacquered, but if waxed, all traces of wax must be removed before lacquering. Never use varnish, shellac or lacquer on inlaid linoleum.

Liquids that might stain linoleum should be wiped up at once. Iodine, ink and similar liquids will absorb slowly if at all, the stain remaining on the surface.

Such stains can be removed by gentle rubbing with fine steel wool or by scraping with a razor blade. As the rubbing and scraping will remove the surface coating of the linoleum, it should be followed at once by waxing or lacquering, according to the finish.

Very often existing linoleum installations on floors, walls and counter tops can be made to give much longer service by patching the worn areas. Since most linoleum patterns are stock items, it generally is possible to purchase the amount necessary to make the patch.

If the linoleum is figured, be sure to allow material for matching the pattern.

Cut out the worn area, following the pattern lines wherever possible. Then match the new pieces over the opening. Fasten with thumbtacks or tape and rough-cut to about 1 inch oversize. Then scribe the piece to obtain a perfect match.

Spread cement in the open area and press the patch firmly in place, rolling it down until it makes full contact. Clean up all excess cement and finally rub lightly with fine steel wool to dull the surface so that it will match the old as closely as possible.

To flatten a bulge along a seam, work some linoleum cement beneath it by lifting the edge and pushing in the paste with a flat, thin stick. If the bulge is in the center of a sheet, a cut must be made through which the cement can be introduced. The cut is made with a razor blade or other sharp knife along an outline of the pattern where it will not show. After the cement is spread, the bulge is pressed down and weights placed on it until the cement has hardened.

Here are all the tools you need to give your linoleum care that will insure good looks and long life.

Fix-It Forum

Q—How may I remove rust stains from asbestos shingles?
Mr. L. L. S.

A—Rust stains may be removed by a 5 per cent solution of phosphoric acid or a 2 per cent solution of oxalic acid, rinsing with clear water after application. Caution should be observed in using these acid solutions.

The three-to-four-pound piece of corned beef will need about three hours' cooking. Cover the beef with water and simmer slowly, do not boil, until tender.

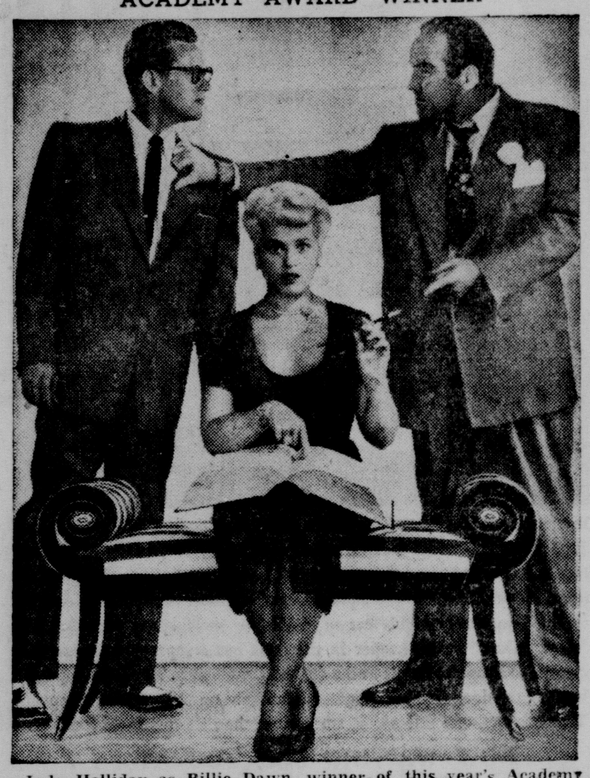
I'D CLIMB THE HIGHEST MOUNTAIN

Ever since "Stars In My Crown," motion picture fans have been asking: "Why can't we have more pictures like that?" Here is the industry's answer... the warm, wonderful story of a Blue Ridge Mountain country parson and his city-bred wife, "Id Climb The Highest Mountain," filmed in technicolor and starring William Lundigan and Susan Hayward. Starting today at the Fox Theatre, "I'd Climb The Highest Mountain" also features Rory Calhoun, Alexander Knox, Gene Lockhart, Lynn Bari and Ruth Donnelly.

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER



Judy Holliday as Billie Dawn, winner of this year's Academy Award as best actress of the year, is pictured with Wm. Holden and Brod Crawford, co-stars in "Born Yesterday." Co-hit on program is "David Harding, Counterspy." This laff and action program plays today through Thursday at the Uptown Theatre.

ACTION AND FUN!

Mark Stevens and Alex Nicol, American airmen shot down by Nazi interceptor planes, seek underground information in this scene from "Target Unknown," playing now thru Tuesday at the Liberty Theatre. Robert Douglas and Joyce Holden are also starred. On the same program is the laugh-crammed hit "Cuban Fireball," starring Estelita Rodriguez and Warren Douglas.

The kitchen has been laveled the most dangerous room in the house.

The Republic of Turkey occupies territory in both Europe and Asia.

THE LADY EVE SURE KNOWS HER APPLES!

Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda are shown in this scene from "The Lady Eve," a rollicking comedy now showing along with "Isn't It Romantic," starring Veronica Lake and Billy DeWolfe. This double feature program is a special attraction on the 2nd anniversary celebration at the 50 Hi-way Drive-In Theatre.

Dear Patrons

Remember STARS IN MY CROWN? How you laughed and cried... and loved every single minute of it?

And you said: "Why don't they make more pictures like this?"

Well, here's your answer... another warm, human, down-to-earth story about a two-fisted young parson and his city-bred wife, who carried the Gospel to the people of a remote community in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Georgia.

You'll love Parson Bill, who liked to wrestle and drive fast horses... and Mary, his wife, the prettiest thing that ever came to town...

While the debate continues over what MacArthur or Wedemeyer or somebody else said long ago about the Asiatic military position, we have—more to the point—a fine up-to-date achievement on hand against the Red offensive in Korea.

That immediately raises the question of how this victory affects United Nations' ambitions for a united Korea.

The U. N. forces under Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet have fought the Communists to a standstill just north of Seoul, the South Korean capital. The commander describes this as a "great victory for the United Nations" but warns that it is only the first phase of the offensive and that the enemy is capable of hitting as hard, or harder, again. He adds:

"I am confident the results will be the same."

The Reds are said to have established a line about 10 miles north of Seoul, with the idea of holding there while regrouping for another major assault against the Allies. On the central front a vast flow of water over torpedoed Hwachon dam is expected to stall any quick renewal of the Red drive in that sector. U.S. Navy bombers torpedoed the dam Tuesday.

Well, supposing our success continues, what is our objective?

Are we aiming merely to evict the Chinese and North Korean invaders from South Korea, or do we aim for the Yalu river, which is the boundary between North Korea and Chinese Manchuria?

U. S. Chief Agent

We must remember that this is a United Nations show, although the United States has been designated as agent for the U. N. The majority of the peace organization currently aim at a negotiated settlement if possible. They want to get out without losing face. But while they earnestly desire a free, united North and South Korea, they are ready to negotiate at the much debated boundary between North and South Korea—the 38th parallel.

Those supporting such a peace settlement argue that the best the Allies can achieve in Korea is a stalemate unless there is a heavy increase in U. N. forces—an increase which the organization doesn't desire. Apropos of this, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, successor to General MacArthur in command, recently said that Allied winning of territory up to the 38th parallel would be a victory.

And MacArthur himself yesterday in effect predicted a stalemate in the Korean war unless air and naval forces are cut loose to carry the fight to the Chinese Communists in Manchuria. That, of course, is one of the arguments on which he is being questioned by the Senate armed service and foreign relations committees in Washington.

MacArthur has urged not only air action against China but a blockade because of the Red move into the Korean fighting. This clashes with the majority sentiment in the United Nations. It also contravenes the policy of the Truman administration which wants the war confined to Korea if possible, and holds that MacArthur's proposals might spread the conflict into a major war.

The United Nations still stands committed on the record to a Unified Korea. Still that commitment is held by close observers to have been tacitly written off, unless it can be fulfilled by peaceful considerations.

And no settlement with the Communists could be expected excepting on the basis of a Red Korea.

So at this writing the fine Allied stand against the Red offensive encourages the hope of a free and democratic South Korea, rather than the United Korea which the peace organization originally envisaged.

Agree Girls Look Better This Spring

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, May 4 — s(AP) — Practice putts by the poor man's philosopher:

Are American girls better looking this spring?

An informal poll at our office watering trough disclosed that everybody thought the girls were more beautiful all right, but for varying reasons.

"They're rounder," said a fellow who likes 'em plump. "Winter feed must have been more plentiful this year."

"They're more slender," said a fellow who prefers 'em thin. "It's probably some new type out-of-sight armor they're encased in. It doesn't let them overflow so much."

"Nope, you're wrong," objected another. "It's just that you can see them more like nature made them. They don't wear those circus tents like they did a couple of years back."

"I think it's because there are not so many of them walking around like ducks," remarked a fourth. "Not so many wearing those flat-footed slippers that make them look like they were hiking off to dance in a ballet."

Look Better by Wisdom

"It's because they are more intelligent — wisdom always makes people look better, even girls," insisted the office optimist.

"You're all crazy," grunted the office cynic. "They look better to you because you're all a year older yourself. The older you get, the prettier they look — darn life anyway."

Well, whatever the reason, girls, the verdict is unanimous: You look prettier this year than ever.

Personally, I like stories about children. Here's a couple from the suburbs:

A school teacher, taking her third grade pupils over hurdles of grammar, had brought them to the problem of punctuation marks. They found the apostrophe particularly difficult to understand.

"Apostrophes, apostrophes," complained one little girl. "That's hard to pronounce. Why don't they just call them flying commas?"

And doesn't that make wonderful common sense?

The father of a 10-year-old girl recently received a telephone call from one of her pre-teen-age male schoolmates asking for his daughter's hand in marriage.

The startled father fought that request down firmly.

"Well, then, can I take her to the movies Saturday?" asked the small determined voice at the other end of the wire. "We're all going."

The dazed parent decided he had better consent to this — and did.

"You know," replied his little future son-in-law cautiously, "everybody pays his own way in."
